WEATHER.

Local forecast—Fair, slight change in temperature.

Forecast for Ohio—Threatening weather and snows; colder, northwesterly winds; fair Saturday.

For Indiana and Illinois—Slightly cooler; generally fair; northwesterly winds; fair Saturday.

For Michigan and Wisconsin—Slightly colder; northerly winds; generally fair; probably fair Saturday.

The local forecast for to-day and Saturday is fair and pleasant, slightly colder.

The "low," or storm center which developed yesterday in Kansas and which ordinarily takes a northeast course is now central at Chattanooga and extends as far north as Columbus, O. This deviation from the usual path will permit clear and colder weather Saturday.

Another "low," a shallow one, has appeared in Montana, and if it develops sufficiently will affect Toledo about Sunday night. The temperature has slightly fallen east and west, except in advance of the "lows" in Montana and Tennessee where it has risen 10 degrees. The lowest temperature in the United States, if we except local temperature of zero at North Platte, Neb., is 4 degrees above at Duluth. Canadian reports, however, show a temperature in the St. Lawrence valley as low as 6 below zero.

The highest in Toledo yesterday was 36 degrees; the lowest this morning was 25 degrees.

Total snowfall this morning was a trace.

MADE MORE SEVERE.

The Sentences Made by Judge Foster Did Not Fill the Bill.

London, Feb. 5.—The Times has a special cable from Santiago which says that the sentences upon the men convicted of assaulting the Baltimore's sailors have, at the demand of the procurator, been made more severe. It is expected that appeals will be taken.

ENDED HIS DAYS.

New York, Feb. 5.—The body of Frederick Zenner, who shot and killed his sweetheart, Maggie Wiessmuller, at 24 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, at 11 o'clock on Wednesday night, was this morning found in a vacant lot on One Hundred and Eighteenth street, near Lenox avenue.

There was a bullet hole in the right side of the head and a 32-calibre revolver was lying beside the body.

SENTENCE PASSED

On the Leading Rioters at Valparaiso,

In the Now Famous Baltimore Case.

The Assassin of Riggin Remains Unknown.

The Findings of the Court in Full.

Gomez and Rodriquez, Under the Chilean Penal Code, Must Pay the Families of the Dead at the End of a Civil Suit.

Valparaiso, Feb. 5.—Judge of Crimes Foster yesterday passed sentence in the long pending and much discussed Baltimore assault case. His sentence is subject to review by the court of appeals.

The document goes over all the evidence again. The finding of the court is as follows:

CARLOS ARENA, alias Gomez, sentenced to 540 days' imprisonment for wounding William Turnbull, the coal heaver of the Baltimore, who died of his injuries; 300 days for public disorder, 60 days for carrying a knife and two days for giving an assumed name. This makes a total of 920 days.

JOSE AHUMADA, sentenced to 320 days' imprisonment for injuring Turnbull.

Frederico Rodriquez, sentenced to 140 days' imprisonment for wounding boatswain's mate Charles W. Riggin, another of the murdered American seamen, for public disorder and for carrying a knife.

It is held by Judge Foster that the evidence does not show that Rodriquez killed Riggin.

On the contrary it is claimed that Riggin's death was caused by a shot fired by some unknown person.

Gomez and Rodriquez, under the Chilean penal code, must pay the families of Turnbull and Riggin damages. These damages are recovered by civil suit.

POOR COAST PROTECTION.

The English Coast is Not Properly Marked.

The Wreck of the Elder Should Cause Better Maritime Protection on the Coasts.

London, Feb. 5.—The Times devotes a long leader to the causes of the loss of the steamship Elder, in which the authorities, whose duty it is to watch over the coasts of England, are severely called to account.

The marquis of Lorne, who had been sent to Atherfield by the queen to watch the wreck, discussed the absence of coast communications and urged that coast guard stations be connected with each other by telegraph to the end that assistance might be more promptly rendered to wrecked ships.

The Times takes up the tale and lectures the authorities for not placing a bell buoy over the shoals on which the Elder stranded. It continues:

"By a happy chance—for the standing of England as a maritime power, it was but a chance, the Elder went ashore under conditions which might relieve us of all blame. But it is our duty to provide the narrow approaches of the Solent with all the signs of warning the ingenuity of man can devise and place them at the points of danger where they are most wanted."

Among other changes suggested by the disaster to the Elder, are the transfer of the fog horn from St. Catherine's point to the Needles, where it is most required, and the substitution of whistling buoys at each dangerous point.

JEALOUS OF GEORGE.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—The order issued by Field Marshal Prince George of Saxony, denouncing the cruelties practiced in the German army, has aroused some jealousy in Prussia, as indicating that the Saxon Prince is ahead of the Prussian royal house in anxiety for the welfare of the common soldier.

YELLOW FEVER.

Every Evidence That the Dread Disease Is in Full Force.

New York, Feb. 5.—The steamship Olbers, from Rio Janeiro, January 10, and St. Lucia January 26, arrived at quarantine this morning and is detained for disinfection.

She brings a repetition of the stories told by the Culver and Buffon, of sickness and death from yellow fever. She reports:

On November 21, Alfred Olsen, seaman, was sent ashore at Rio to the hospital and died the same day of yellow fever. December 20 Henry Russell, second steward, was taken sick and sent ashore to a smallpox hospital.

RAILROAD REORGANIZATION.

New York, Feb. 5.—Jay Gould has signed the agreement for the reorganization of the International & Great Northern, and the plan will doubtless be carried out.

It is understood he has guaranteed the payment of assessments of dissenting stockholders.

The committee of second mortgage bondholders has called a meeting of the bondholders for February 10 to ratify the plan.

TO TRANSPORT THE GRAIN.

New York, Jan. 5.—On motion of ex-Mayor Hewitt the chamber of commerce appointed a committee to raise funds to convey food to the starving people of Russia. Messrs. Hewitt, Wm. M. Evarts, J. Pierpont Morgan, C. Vanderbilt, J. D. Rockefeller and about forty others are on the committee.

YELLOW FEVER ON BOARD.

New York, Feb. 5.—The British steamer Buffon, from Brazil, which arrived here yesterday, lost seven men, including Capt. Glasspoole, by yellow fever at Santos. The vessel is in quarantine.

WAS MISGUIDED JUSTICE

A Mother Killed by Mistake by a Mob.

Reign of Terror in a Texas County.

The People Have Organized to Drive the Barn Burners Out of the State at the Point of the Pistol.

Gallatin, Tenn., Feb. 5.—A reign of terror has existed for two years in this county, due to the depredations of what appears to be an organized gang of barn burners.

The hotbed of these criminal operations appeared to be in the neighborhood of Henderson, 10 miles from here. In this vicinity over $100,000 worth of property has been burned.

Recently Andrew Epps, Abe Youree, the Martin boys and eight other river rats, all white men, were arrested for participation in the crimes, but were acquitted.

The sentiment was so strong against them, however, that they fled.

Yesterday it became known that the Martin boys had returned. That same evening a mob visited their house and demanded their surrender. This was refused, and when a moment later a head was seen at the window the mob fired. Then it was discovered that they had killed the mother of the boys. They left immediately, and the sons, after burying their mother and telling a neighbor what they had done, disappeared. It was reported Wednesday that they had been overtaken, shot to death and their bodies left in the woods.

Wednesday night the handsome farm house of Wm. Diedry, not far from the Martin home, was burned as the result of an incendiary fire. Four barns also went down before an incendiary torch.

To-day White county is aroused. Armed men are patrolling every farm and suspicious looking persons will fare badly. There are rumors of several killings, but affairs are in such an excited state that it is not possible to learn the exact facts.

MORRELL MACKENZIE.

Bitter Comment from the German Press.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—The newspapers have various views of the late Sir Morrell Mackenzie, according as they favor or condemn his treatment of the late Emperor Frederick.

There are but few words of approval, either in the press or in public, for the deceased physician, and the National Zeitung probably voices the prevalent sentiment when it says: "At Mackenzie's open grave we will not say more than that he was a skilled physician of very elastic conscience."

Another paper says the revilings heaped upon Dr. Mackenzie were partly deserved and partly undeserved.

The indications are that while the animosity toward Mackenzie in certain quarters has been greatly allayed, much of the former prejudice remains.

GREAT GRAIN BLOCKADE.

Miles of Cars on the Western Roads.

The Eastern Elevators Cannot Hold the Cereals and There's Trouble All Along the Line.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 5.—The grain blockade continues. Hundreds of cars loaded with grain still stand on the sidetracks of the various roads.

If they could only be allowed to haul it east the roads would be all right, as there are plenty of cars, but the eastern cities are in the same condition.

Little grain is being received by any of the roads billed to Kansas City. A dispatch from Atchison says that at noon yesterday the Missouri Pacific had 800 cars loaded with grain between Omaha and Atchison.

WON AND THEN QUIT.

A Man Who Made Use of His Head.

New York, Feb. 5.—Mr. Henry Rosenfeld, of Chicago, is one who has wooed the fickle goddess successfully. He has just returned from a visit to Monte Carlo where he won $80,000. With admirable judgment he concluded to leave the gambling table forever, and he invited his friends to an elaborate dinner celebrating his phenomenal luck and affirming his vow never to put a dollar on the green cloth again. Health to the Monte Carlo casino proprietors was drunk, after which Mr. Rosenfeld bade his acquaintances good-bye, went to Paris and left for his home by the French line steamship La Bourgogne, which arrived this morning. Mr. Rosenfeld left for Chicago this afternoon.

HARTER'S BANKING BILL.

It Will Soon be Dumped in the Hopper.

Financial Laws Will Be Generally Revised.

Railroads Come in for a Share of Attention—Radical Changes Proposed by the Measure.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—A bill that will be of great interest to bankers and railroad managers will be introduced in the house by Hon. M. D. Harter, of Mansfield. If the bill becomes a law the general banking laws of the country will be completely changed and certain railroad men may possibly go to jail for ten years, perhaps twenty years. The points of the bill are as follows:

The United States shall not hereafter guarantee the payment of circulating notes issued by any national banking association.

There shall be no limit to the amount of circulating notes which any national banking association may issue, except that such notes shall at no time exceed 90 per centum of the par value of the bonds deposited to secure the same by such association.

Every national banking association may at all times have on hand, in the custody of the Comptroller of the Currency, such amount of its circulating notes ready for issue, upon the deposit of the securities with the treasurer of the United States, as shall not at any time exceed the par value of its paid up capital stock.

Every state bank, state banking association, or banker expressly authorized under state statute to issue circulating notes, shall pay a tax upon such notes at the same rate as that paid by the national banking associations and no more, and every such national banking association, state bank, state banking association, or banker shall pay a tax upon the circulating notes issued by them and in circulation at the rate of 1 per centum per annum upon the average amount of the same, not exceeding 90 per centum of the capital stock actually paid up in cash; 2 per centum per annum upon the average amount of such notes in excess of 90 per centum and not exceeding 180 per centum of the said amount, and 10 per centum upon the average amount of such notes in excess of 180 per centum of said capital. Such taxes shall be payable semi-annually and collected by the internal revenue collectors of the United States.

In addition to the United States bonds now required by law to be deposited with the treasurer of the United States to secure the circulating notes of national banking associations, the comptroller of the currency shall be authorized to accept registered bonds issued by any railroad corporation or city in the United States and deposit the same with the treasurer of the United States in behalf of any such association as security for its circulating notes, subject to the following restrictions:

First—The principal and interest of all such bonds shall, in expressed terms, be payable in gold coin of the United States.

Second—All such bonds must have been continuously listed upon some regular stock exchange located in a city of the United States having a population of not less than 500,000, for at least five years.

Third—No bond shall be accepted upon which payment of interest has at any time been in default, or which at any time within three years prior to the date of its offer for acceptance has sold publicly upon any stock exchange where it was listed for less than 105 cents on the dollar of its face value.

Fourth—No bond shall be accepted if the total tax levy of the city issuing it exceeds 2 per centum per annum.

Fifth—No railroad bond not regularly secured by mortgage upon the road-bed and track shall be accepted.

Sixth—No association shall be permitted to have more than 20 per centum of its bonds on deposit of the issue of any one railroad corporation or city.

Seventh—Whenever any class of bonds on deposit has been publicly sold below par for a period of 30 days upon any stock exchange where listed, the comptroller shall require a bond to be substituted which will in all respects meet the requirements of the law.

Eighth—Whenever any railroad corporation which was paying dividends upon its stock when its bonds were accepted by the comptroller ceases to pay dividends the substitution of other and proper bonds shall be required.

The comptroller, with the consent of the secretary of the treasury, shall have the right to reject any class of bonds he sees fit and to require proper substitution for any already on deposit considered undesirable.

No association shall be required to keep on deposit with the treasurer of the United States any further security or fund for the payment of its circulating notes than those named.

Any president, vice-president, manager, secretary, treasurer, or other officer of any interstate railroad who shall knowingly issue, or permit to be issued, any false statement of the earnings, expense or condition of the road he is officially connected with, shall be subject to indictment and trial in any court of the United States, and if found guilty shall be imprisoned at hard labor for not less than ten years nor more than twenty years, and be subject to a fine in addition of not more than $100,000.

For the further protection of the holders of circulating notes, the United States shall have a first lien upon the assets of each association for the payment of its notes, in addition to the bonds deposited with the treasurer of the United States as security.

A fund of $1,000,000 shall be created out of the taxes collected under this law from national banking associations and shall be maintained from the same source, and if the proceeds of the bonds deposited to secure the circulating notes of an association and the first lien upon its assets together are insufficient to redeem the outstanding notes of the association, then the deficiency shall be made good from this fund.

When an association has been placed in the hands of a receiver, its circulating notes shall cease to be received in payment of any obligation due and payable to the United States.

Mr. Harter says his bill has been indorsed by at least one hundred bankers and business men.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

Dick Breeze Will Not Wear Stripes.

Governor Francis Pardoned Him Just as He Was About to Enter the Prison Doors.

Kansas City, Feb. 5.—Dick Breeze, convicted of embezzling $10,000, will not wear stripes.

Marshal Stuart had so much faith in Breeze that he allowed him to go on errands all over the city. He went from jail unattended to his trial and returned after conviction.

Wednesday night Gov. Francis met Marshal Stuart and instructed him to bring Breeze to the penitentiary.

Stuart ordered Breeze to go to the penitentiary prepared to serve his term of two years. Breeze was turned loose from jail yesterday, took a train for Jefferson City, reported to the warden of the prison, and while preparing to put on the stripes, was pardoned by the governor.

MONEY FOR THE POPE.

The Tribunal at Mont Didier Decides in His Favor.

Paris, Feb. 5.—The tribunal at Mont Didier has decided in favor of the Roman pontiff in the suit regarding the will of the late Marquise of Plessia and Belldere, who bequeathed a large share of her property to the pope.

The Marquis Colbert disputed the will claiming the exercise of undue religious influence over the testator.

The tribunal found that no undue influence had been exerted and that the pope, if authorized by the French people through their representatives, would be entitled to receive the residue bequeathed to his holiness in the will.

THE VICTORIA

Rescued from the Rocks by the Tugs and Lighters

London, Feb. 5.—A dispatch from Athens says the British man-of-war Victoria which went ashore on the Greek coast, has been floated by the tugs and lighters sent from Piraeus.

Only her outer shell was broken by the rocks. She will be towed to this port where she is expected to arrive about the 14th, and will be put into drydock for repairs. Her guns, which were unshipped to lighten her, will be brought on by the steamer Tyne, which helped to pull her off.

FITZSIMMONS IS DEAD.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 5.—A New Orleans special to the Times says Fitzsimmons, the murderer of Detective Gilkinson, who cut his throat in the parish prison yesterday, died at 1 o'clock this morning.

MILL BURNED.

Covington, Ky., Feb. 5.—Last night the Trumpet flour mills, on the corner of Fifth and Craig streets, for the second time were burned. The loss is about $75,000, with only $16,000 insurance.

IS TRUE TO HIS PARTY.

Thayer to Make a New Move in Nebraska.

Anything to Keep Gov. Boyd Out of Office.

The Will of the People Cuts No Figure so Long as Republicans Can Hold on to an Office.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—A Tribune special from Omaha says: Another scheme developed yesterday whereby Gov. Boyd will be indefinitely deprived of the chief executive's chair of Nebraska. It is reported on the undisputed authority of a prominent republican state official that Lieut.-Gov. Majors will assume the duties and responsibilities of governor next week. Gov. Thayer has announced that he will then start south to remain permanently. The official quoted says:

"Majors will call a special session of the legislature and he will enumerate specifically the matters that the legislature shall take into consideration, but the railroad and freight rate question will be studiously avoided."

This is attributed to a plan of the railroad managers, who fear that if Boyd gets into office now he will convene the legislature and transact some much-needed legislation. The gentleman said further:

"Gen. Thayer is afraid to exercise the full power of a governor as matters now stand because he is afraid his action might be illegal but he wants to keep Boyd out of the office as long as possible. If he can get Majors in the chair and block up the way for Gov. Boyd for another 60 days he will do it.

HIS HOGGISHNESS.

The Nebraska Fight Turned Into a Waiting Game.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 5.—The gubernatorial imbroglio has resolved itself into a waiting game. Gov. Boyd states that unless the office is voluntarily turned over to him by Thayer he will wait the issuance of the supreme court's mandate February 29, and then equipped with the proper authority will make the formal demand.

Allowing time of transmission and action of the state supreme court upon the mandate it will probably be March 4 before he will be restored to his office.

Thayer sets up the claim that he resived the office from the state supreme court and will hold on to it until further notified by that court. His course is technically legal, but is generally denounced by men of all parties.

THE BORDER WAR.

Another Brush With the Revolutionists.

Garza's Forces and Power Are Underestimated by the People of Mexico.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Feb. 5.—R. A. Kline, a prominent official of the Mexican National railroad, arrived last night and reports things hot in the lower country. The people of the Duval county are aroused and private parties are out assisting the rangers and troops.

Captains McNeil and Brooks, with the rangers, struck a band of revolutionists yesterday near Realitos, and after a short, sharp fight, killed one and captured two of the band. One ranger was slightly wounded.

Garza's Plans.

Leavenworth, Ks., Feb. 5.—Col. Martin has just arrived in this city from San Antonio, Tex. He says: "Those who think there will not be a revolution will be much surprised. Garza's organization is so complete that he can concentrate his strength at very short notice, and that strength is more than is known."

Col. Martin says Garza's intention is to do all his fighting in Mexico.

A GOOD MOVE.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Senator Sawyer has introduced a bill to repeal the provisions of the act requiring life saving appliances on steamers so far as they relate to the line carrying projectiles, on steamers plying exclusively upon any of the lakes, bays or sounds of the United States.

NO DECISION YET.

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 5.—The rumors printed in Chicago to the effect that a new trial had been granted to the slayers of Dr. Cronin are utterly without foundation.

As well as can be learned, the supreme court has not as yet prepared an opinion on the appeal from the lower court.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Carthage, Mo., Feb. 5.—Fire last night destroyed the main building of the Missouri woolen mill, owned by Mayor W. B. Myers. The origin of the fire is unknown but it is believed to have been spontaneous combustion. The loss will be about $20,000; partially insured.

AGAINST THE BRIDGE.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The senate committee on commerce decided to-day to report adversely on the bill to construct a railroad terminal bridge over the Hudson between New York and Jersey City. Also adversely on the general bill regulating the construction of bridges over the East and North rivers at New York.

NOW READY FOR BUSINESS

The House Has Adopted Its Rules.

Tom Reed Playing the Part of a Buffoon.

Senator Brice Looking After the Interest of His Constituents—He Denies That He Favors Any Particular Presidential Candidate.

Washington, Feb. 5.—(Special)—After several weeks of debate the house has adopted the Carlisle rules and is now ready to proceed to business. The debate has been spirited, and the democrats have been obliged to squelch Tom Reed several times, for the fat man from Maine seemed determined to play the part of the buffoon.

The rules are much like those in force when Carlisle was speaker, changed only to make them more forcible.

The rules are democratic and they will be popular. They neither concentrate arbitrary power in the hands of the speaker nor tolerate ridiculous filibustering by one or two individuals.

They do, however, fully recognize those rights of the minority which were ignored and outraged in the last congress.

Now that the rules are out of the way there is an excellent prospect that the house will move along rapidly.

This week is so far spent that it is hardly probable that the house can reach important legislation before next week, but then work will begin briskly.

The free wool bill will be laid before the ways and means committee to-day.

The republicans will be given a week to prepare a minority report, after which the bill will be reported to the house. Those members of the majority who are opposed to the separate bill plan, headed by Wilson and McMillin, have indicated their purpose to aid their colleagues, who favor separate bills as much as possible in carrying out the policy agreed upon by the majority, with the understanding that they are to report bills attacking every prominent feature of the McKinley bill and press the work vigorously. It is expected that not less than six tariff bills (revising) will be reported from the committee.

Cleveland Harbor.

Last year congress appropriated but $75,000 for the improvement of the harbor at Cleveland. This year the request for a larger appropriation is met with the statement that Cleveland does not use all the present harbor room, and that the western breakwater is not used at all.

Mr. V. A. Taylor is having a map prepared at the war department showing why vesselmen do not care to risk their property within the west arm of the breakwater.

The map will prove pretty conclusively that there should be an appropriation for the completion of the east arm of the breakwater, for it will trace the course of a northeast storm and follow it directly into the harbor made by the west arm.

That is the reason vessels seldom take refuge behind the west arm, for as a sailor told Mr. Taylor, the sea there is even worse than it is outside. With this map Mr. Taylor hopes to answer the objections made against giving Cleveland a liberal appropriation.

Denies the Tale.

A statement was recently published to the effect that Senator Brice had declared that the Ohio delegation to the national democratic convention would be unanimous for David B. Hill for president.

Being asked to-day in regard to the matter, Mr. Brice made a flat-footed denial that he had ever said anything of that sort.

He said he had no predictions to make at this time, but asserted with emphasis that he had never expressed an intention to support Mr. Hill or anybody else. He also denied that the question of a candidate had anything whatever to do with the action of the national committee in selecting Chicago as the place for holding the convention.

He disavowed any intention to influence in the slightest degree the action of the state or district conventions in Ohio in the selection of delegates.

In Favor of Call.

The senate committee has made a unanimous report in favor of Senator Call being seated against Davidson, who was appointed by the governor.

Senator Brice's Bill.

Senator Brice has introduced a bill to appropriate $100,000 for a monument at Put-in-Bay to commemorate Commodore Perry's victory in the battle of Lake Erie in 1813. A similar bill was introduced in the last congress. It was favorably reported, but got no further than the calendar.

Mr. Brice also introduced bills for the erection of a public building at Fremont, O., to cost $50,000; to reimburse Henry C. Cassidy, postmaster at Youngstown under the Cleveland administration, for clerk hire to the amount of $752; to reimburse the Gendron Wheel company, of Toledo, in the sum of $256 for an alleged overcharge of duties on imported goods imposed by the collector of customs at Toledo.

New Lighthouse.

To-day the secretary of the treasury awarded to John P. McGuire, of Cleveland, for $15,760, the contract for erecting a lighthouse on Orchard shoal, Lake Ontario.

Took an Ohio Man.

HAVE TAKEN A REST.

Both Branches of the Legislature Adjourn.

Fremont Bond Bill Passed by the House.

Our Neighbors Succeeded, After a Warm Contest, in Securing the Right to Vote on Bonds for a Bonus.

Columbus, Feb. 5.—(Special)—Some time ago a bill was introduced by Representative Aldrich authorizing the city of Fremont to issue $35,000 in bonds to retain a manufacturing establishment in that place that had been burned down and was about to remove to Pullman, Illinois.

After it passed through its regular course it was referred to the judiciary committee of the house and when considered by the wise-acres of that committee the republican members concluded to report it back with a recommendation that it be indefinitely postponed.

When the committee submitted its report yesterday afternoon Mr. Aldrich secured the floor and in a speech of three minutes' duration made an argument against the decision of this committee.

This brought a number of orators to their feet, among the number being Clark, of Cuyahoga county, chairman of the committee and he bored the house for some time against the engrossment of the bill, but he was knocked out as the house ordered that the bill should pass through that stage and then a racket was made over the time that it should be read the third time.

Its opponents wanted the same postponed until next Tuesday, but its friends, knowing where they stood, pushed the bill to a passage by yeas 69, nays 14, and on its passage it received 60 yeas, nays 20.

It will be submitted to a vote of the people of that city requiring two-thirds for success.

No sinking fund balance shall be transferred to any fund except of the same character.

TALKING WATER WORKS.

Napoleon Council Discussing the Question.

Napoleon, Feb. 5.—(Special)—The city council is doing a heavy job of wrestling with water works and electric light this week. They were placed upon their first and second readings. A contract for each was also submitted.

The council adjourned until last evening when it met as a committee of the whole and discussed contracts and franchises. It adjourned again until this evening. It will continue short sessions until the questions are settled.

TWO OUT OF FOUR.

Some time since the New York Life Insurance company offered four cash prizes aggregating $1,000 to agents and agencies that would turn in the best comparative business during the months of November and December, 1891. The awards have just been made. Allentown Pennsylvania, obtained the first; Mr. James A. Young, manager of the business in Toledo, second; the Cincinnati office third; and Mr. Joseph A. Duffey, of the Toledo office, fourth. This is quite a feather in the cap for Toledo. Two out of the four. The offices are located in the new Bee building. From May, 1891, to January, 1892, Mr. Young transacted more business than the company ever before received in Toledo for a whole year. The combination is now perfect—the company, the manager and the building.

WILL COME TO TOLEDO.

Those who have read the works of John Fiske have been impressed with the rich and varied illustrations that history seems to afford for every thought that he has penned. Among historians, literary men and scholars in general he is acknowledged to stand pre-eminent both for his comprehension of historical truth and for his power of analysis and application. His "Critical Period in American History" was almost a revelation even to scholars, on the condition of affairs in America from 1783 to 1789. "The Discovery of America" is a subject that he is better qualified to treat than any other scholar, from the fact that he is acquainted with all the manuscripts from which the history of that time is made. Not only for the purpose of presenting the narrative in an entertaining manner, but also for the task of showing what the discovery of America has had to do with shaping the destiny of the civilized world, is this eminent scholar especially fitted.

Prof. Adams, of the high school, and others interested in educational movements, have secured Mr. Fiske for one lecture, on or about February 22, date not yet decided.

The Bee congratulates Toledo for this rare opportunity in prospect. The lecture will probably be given in Wheeler's opera house.

Catarrh Described.

The Different Phases of the Disease Graphically Told.

A Letter Fully Answered For the Benefit of the Public—Grateful Patients Giving Their Experience.

Among the many letters received by Dr. Copeland and associates during the past few days, we take one inquiring what Catarrh is, and what portions of the body it affects.

Many people labor under the mistaken idea that Catarrh means simply a discharge from the nostrils, with a hawking and spitting of mucus; but to the observing physician who makes a specialty of the disease, the word Catarrh means more. Experience has taught him that Catarrh is by no means confined to the head alone, but that the entire system is frequently affected by it. Thus we have:

Catarrh of the nose, causing frontal headaches (more commonly known as neuralgia), a sense of dullness or drowsiness, dizziness, confusion of thoughts, etc.

Catarrh of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, causing sore throat, cough, hoarseness or entire loss of voice, bronchitis, asthma, pneumonia, etc.

Catarrh of the stomach (more commonly known as dyspepsia), causing indigestion, heartburn, water brash, nausea, fetid breath, palpitation or fluttering of the heart, shortness of breath, etc.

Catarrh of the bladder, with its long list of symptoms, causing diabetes, Bright's disease, etc.

Catarrh of the bowels, causing alternate diarrhoea and constipation, piles, etc. In fact, Catarrh affects more or less all the mucus surfaces of the entire body, causing at times severe local or general neuralgic or rheumatic pains. So when we are asked (as we often are by patients) whether we treat other diseases as well as catarrh, we answer, yes.

We Treat All Chronic Diseases.

Because experience has taught us that nearly every chronic disease in this climate is due to a general catarrhal condition of the system, and in treating this condition we cure the disease.

Our method of treatment is peculiarly adapted to this class of ailments of the entire mucus tract of the body, as it is both local and constitutional, and each year's experience and successful treatment only confirms our claim that this is the only true and rational mode of treatment. In this we are borne out by hundreds—nay thousands of testimonials from grateful patients.

In seeing patients who have been treated by Dr. Copeland and associates, the reporter is often embarrassed by the enthusiastic praise that the quandam sufferer showers upon the physicians, and the indiscriminate manner in which he speaks of the details of his ailment and the cure effected. He seems to be so delighted over his present happy condition, that he can utter nothing but expressions of gratitude and praise and he sums up the sufferings of the past in general terms decidedly unsatisfactory to the one who is after particulars. Such a patient is Mr. Charles Sandberg, of Collingwood avenue and Lafayette street, he says:

"I suffered from a catarrhal condition for a number of years. Of late years it has been much worse, and I began to fear I never would get rid of it. I had severe headaches nearly all the time. At times I would have a bad cough; I was constantly raising mucus; my head would stop up, and hard lumps formed in the nostrils; my ears became affected.

Charles J. Sandberg, Corner Collingwood Avenue and Lafayette Street.

I had a constant roaring and buzzing sound that impaired my hearing; the sense of smell was nearly gone and my breath was offensive. My tonsils became so enlarged as to change my voice and make speaking difficult. I had pains in my chest—sharp, shooting pains that would extend to my back. I had night sweats and my appetite was poor; I suffered considerably from constipation, and in fact, my whole system was run down.

"Some time ago I began treatment with Dr. Copeland and associates, whose offices are at 706 Madison street. They have done for me more than any other doctors or all the patent medicines and remedies that I have taken. I have increased in weight several pounds. I can sleep well. In fact, I feel better to-day than I have for many years.

They Have Cured Me.

And I cheerfully recommend them to those suffering as I did. Dr. Copeland and associates are gentlemen; physicians of ability; and are doing a great amount of good to suffering humanity in this city."

THE ANTI-OPTION BILL.

The Agricultural Committee Hearing Arguments.

John Whitaker, From the West, Has Some Decided Views on the Subject.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The house committee on agriculture continued its hearing to-day on Mr. Hatch's bill defining futures. John Whitaker, a prominent meat packer of St. Louis and Wichita, was heard in favor of the bill.

He said it was only within the last ten years that short sales by non-owners have affected prices in Chicago and St. Louis, in selling cotton or grain.

The main object in selling something you do not possess was to depress prices. Between 1880 and 1885 wheat in Chicago sold at $1.04, but after 1885 it sold at 81 cents. This was not caused by overproduction, but by short selling. In Chicago, he said, no figures are kept of short selling, but he had figures from such sales in New York.

In New York the transactions in January, 1892, were: Receipts, 3,250,000 bushels, and sales, spot, 3,500,000. Futures, over 83,000,000 bushels; exports, 4,250,000 bushels.

He thought the selling of 83,000,000 bushels in futures was a great outrage. This selling in excess could not do otherwise than hurt prices.

He was of the opinion that there was nothing in the bill under discussion that would hurt legitimate trade. Farmers did not hold on to their wheat as it was a losing game. But if the market could be fixed so the farmers could hold their wheat then they would be all right.

Mr. Whitaker said non-owners, or in other words, the American anarchists, for that is what they were, should be wiped out, for they would make the farmer sell his produce under their red flag.

Let supply and demand fix prices, said Mr. Whitaker and we will see if the prices of wheat will be 81 cents or $1. He thought if this law had been enacted by the last congress, the price of wheat would have gone over $1.

In answer to a question he said he did not think the passage of the bill would hurt the legitimate dealer, and if shorts are taken away it would tend to increase prices.

He did not condemn option dealing in Liverpool as Europe is more a dealer than a producer of wheat. For the same reason option dealings in coffee in New York were proper as the United States does not raise coffee. Such dealing would lower its price.

SHE WANTED TO HANG.

Is Miss Mitchell Playing the Insanity Dodge?

If So She Can be Classed as a Most Successful Actor—Her Latest Declaration.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 5.—Miss Alice Mitchell, the slayer of Freda Ward, when informed yesterday by her lawyer that she would escape the gallows, grew frantic and said that she looked forward to the day when she should be hanged as the happiest day of all.

Beyond the gallows she believes that she will once more meet Freda. She became terribly despondent and fears are entertained that she will commit suicide. She is watched by relatives.

THE INTENT TO DEFRAUD.

It Must be Proven in the Maverick Case.

Judge Nelson Gives the Grand Jury Instructions in This Interesting Matter.

Boston, Feb. 5.—The United States grand jury being about to take up the cases of the officials charged with misappropriating the funds of the Maverick National bank, Judge Nelson has issued instructions to them giving a review of the law which is to govern them in considering the cases.

After quoting the statutes relating to embezzlement or wilful misapplication of the funds of any institution by its officers, Judge Nelson instructs them that they should understand in dealing with this act that it is necessary for the government to make out that the misapplication by the directors or officers of any banking corporation must have been fraudulent and not a mere mistake.

The government must prove that the transaction by which the money was taken by a director from the bank was fraudulent.

It was not infrequent that directors are unable to pay loans made to them by banks but that is not embezzlement. The government must prove a fraudulent purpose, and anything short of that would not justify the jury in finding an indictment.

From too Close Connection With the Craig Oil Refinery.

In common pleas court to-day Elizabeth Weaver sued the Craig Oil company to recover $1,000 damages. The plaintiff owns land adjoining land on which the defendants have located an oil refinery.

The plaintiff alleges in her petition that by the natural formation of the land, noxious substances are allowed to flow on to her land by the defendants, and that the defendants continue to allow this flow until the water of the well has become impregnated with the fluid, so as to render it unfit for use. That the same has destroyed the shrubbery and plants on the grounds.

An injunction restraining the defendant from permitting the flow of water, oil or noxious fluids from its premises was allowed.

A BLAZE IN LOUISVILLE.

Captain Edwards Burned to Death.

Grounds for the Belief That He Was Murdered and the Building Fired.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 5.—A disastrous fire started at 5 o-clock this morning in the office of the central tobacco warehouse of Edwards, Barnard & Co., on Main street, near Tenth.

Mr. W. S. Edwards, the senior member of the firm, was burned to death. He was asleep in his room, and it is supposed he never awoke. His dead body was found after the fire had consumed everything, leaving only the blackened walls.

Mr. Edwards was 55 years old and unmarried. He had for years had his sleeping apartments over the office. He was widely known throughout the state and very wealthy.

The loss on building and contents is estimated at $75,000; fully insured. The cause of the fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

Mr. Edwards' body was found on the first floor near the door leading to Main street. This morning about 11 o'clock Officer Tate was walking about the ruins, and against the rear wall he found a bundle of rags and kindling thoroughly saturated with coal oil and tied together.

In the ruins he found portions of another and similar bundle, which makes it almost a certainty that the conflagration was carefully planned by an incendiary. It also gives rise to a theory that perhaps Capt. Edwards caught the intruder in the building and was murdered. After the supposed crime the intruder may have set fire to the building so as to cover the crime.

CURRENT TOPICS.

A Cookson (Neb.) dispatch to the Pittsburg Dispatch says: One of the most remarkable electric phenomena ever seen in this country was witnessed a few nights ago by those who were fortunate enough to be up after midnight. It had been a very cold day and the air was crisp. For several nights there had been brilliant auroras, and these gradually increased until the light was so bright as to almost turn night into day. On the night in question the auroras were especially bright and just after midnight what appeared to be electrical clouds made their appearance in the north, and accumulated in vast numbers, and floated to the south, disappearing at an angle of about 20 degrees after passing low over the city. These clouds were of a most peculiar appearance, being bright and shimmering and the light increasing and decreasing, while all the while the clouds emitted a crackling noise similar to that emitted by tissue paper when it is rumpled or crushed. These clouds continued to increase in number until the whole heavens to the north of the city seemed to be filled with them, and so bright appeared the night that it became easy to read newspaper print by the strange light. There was no flashing, such as is made by lightning, but the light was of a mellow character, and seemed to penetrate the whole cloud and to take on part of the aurora's light from the north, which all the while glowed with greater fervency than had ever been seen at this place. On the second night the same strange phenomena were witnessed, but in a much less degree, and since that time they have been absent, although the aurora has been very brilliant.

Speaking in a large way, there are in America to-day two classes of political thinkers: those who believe in a paternal government, which shall say what one shall eat and drink, what one shall wear, how long one shall work, at what age one shall send one's children to school, what precautions one shall take against loss of life—in a word, a government which shall be a special, if not always a very wise, providence to each of its citizens; and there are those who, mistrusting this meddlesome paternalism, would go to the other extreme, and would limit the functions of government to a minimum.

The first class is apt to include those well-meaning but mischievous reformers who wish, like the prohibitionist, to cure society by medicine in place of hygiene, and that part of our professional class who have drawn their social ideals from bureaucratic Germany. The second class takes in those, perhaps, who have studied the political writings of Herbert Spencer, and have translated his sturdy and wholesome demands for the largest possible individual liberty to require a perpetually negative attitude on the part of the government.—Popular Science Monthly.

The ministers of the czar have got to do some pretty close figuring if they wish to make the receipts and expenditures of their government come anywhere near balancing one another. The imperial budget for the year, which has just been made up, estimates the revenue receipts at about $18,000,000 less than they were for 1891, while the expenditures are increased in all departments except that of war. This shows a decrease of about $77,000. The result is that there appears to be a deficiency of about $55,000,000 in the czar's exchequer. To cover this a levy will be made upon the available reserve at the imperial treasury, recently replenished from the receipts of the 3 per cent. gold loan of 1891. Ordinarily, Russian finances would have little interest except to those who are speculating in Russian paper; but as the temper of the White Bear next spring is supposed to be dependent upon the available cash in the czar's strong box, all Europe is anxious on that score. From the budget there would seem to be little danger about the "dogs of war" ranging very far from St. Petersburg.

The stockholders of the American Sugar Refining company have held their annual meeting and learned that their affairs were reasonably prosperous notwithstanding the intense hostility of the present administration to trusts of all kinds, says the Indianapolis Sentinel. The net profits of the year were only $5,073,002.17, of which $3,750,000 was paid out in dividends. A resolution was adopted to increase the capital stock of the concern from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000, and a quiet intimation was given that this move meant the absorption of the sugar refineries at Philadelphia not now included in the trust. The refining company of San Francisco was taken in during the past year at a capital valuation of $1,500,000. What could be a more gratifying indication of the rapid development of the country under the beneficient influence of a protective tariff policy?

It is the opinion of Sir John Gorst, one of the most prominent members of the English labor commission, that the state might fitly aid the proposed system of old-age pensions by augmenting the contributions paid by laboring men, to a moderate extent. He does not think it of much importance to have employers of labor contribute, because he feels sure that it would be reckoned out of wages But he holds that the poor already have a vested right to be maintained by their parish in old age, and the proposed pensions would be one form of meeting this. As to what happens in case of the premature death of the bread winner he puts it in rather a startling way by saying that society takes advantage of the natural feelings of the widow and actually "sweats" her to bring up for the state those children whom otherwise the state would have to bring up for itself.

In an interview with a Washington Post man, in that city, A. J. Sawyer, of Minneapolis, one of the most prominent grain men of the northwest, said: "We had a wheat crop of about 150,000,000 bushels in the states of Minnesota, North and South Dakota. Our farmers have realized good prices for about 60 per cent. of the crop, which we estimate they have marketed. Had it not been for the unfortunate rainy weather in the northern part of North Dakota and Minnesota, our farmers would have realized more money for their crops than ever before. In many instances the net profits have paid the cost of the land, and in nearly every county in the three states lands have advanced from $5 to $15 per acre. Lands that two years ago were unmarketable are now salable at the above advance."

The speed with which some of the towering modern office buildings are erected is enough to paralyze an old-time butcher. The Ashland block in Chicago, which will be 80 by 140 feet on the ground and 17 stories high, is being rushed up by day and night, electric lights and stoves being used to make work possible at night and in cold weather. During last month four stories were built in 13 days. The building is of steel skeleton construction, with brick and terra-cotta walls.

TO SAVE HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Captain Osborne Will Go to Prison.

Sensational Turn in a Celebrated Case.

The Woman Will Plead Guilty of Perjury, and Go to Prison, to Save Her Husband From Dismissal From the Army.

London, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Florence Ethel Osborne, who was arrested at Dover yesterday upon landing there from the Calais steamer, charged, in connection with the famous Osborne-Hargreaves stolen pearls case, with obtaining the sum of £550 from Messrs. Spink & Sons, jewelers, of Bond street, the amount alleged to have been paid her for the stolen jewelry, was brought up a prisoner this morning in the Guild Hall court.

The lord mayor of London, Hon. David Evans, presided. Mrs. Osborne, who was deathly pale and in a fainting condition, was escorted to a seat at the solicitor's table.

The court was packed to the utmost by sensation lovers and many expressions of sympathy were heard for the unfortunate lady.

At the opening of court by the lord mayor there was a long and painful delay and much whispering to and by the court, from which it became apparent that there was some hitch in the proceedings. Then the report spread that the treasury officials had decided not to prosecute on the charge referred to above, but to arraign her upon the more serious charge of perjury.

As the time wore on and nobody appeared for the treasury the lord mayor became impatient and then showed signs of decided anger, for he commented in strong terms upon the laxity displayed by the government officials.

Finally Lord Mayor Evans adjourned the court for half an hour and sent a messenger, bearing a warmly worded note to the treasury department, asking the reason for the neglect to send a representative to present the charge against Mrs. Osborne, and notifying that department that the prisoner would be discharged unless the treasury was promptly represented at the Guild Hall.

The result of the lord mayor's message was that before the half hour of adjournment had expired, an official from that branch of the government appeared at the Guild Hall, having been driven there in hot haste in a cab and, to the astonishment of the court, of the prisoner and of all others present, announced that the treasury did not intend to offer any evidence against Mrs. Osborne.

The lord mayor, so soon as he had recovered from the state of dumbfoundness into which he had been plunged by the announcement of the treasury's determination, discharged the prisoner, and she left the court room amid applause from those who had gathered to witness her discomfiture.

To say that the court, lawyers and others present were astounded at the treasury's bombshell is but mildly expressing the state of mind in which they found themselves.

Later in the day it transpired that Mrs. Osborne was rearrested shordy after leaving Guild hall, and taken to Bow street police court, where she was charged with perjury.

At Bow street evidence of the arrest and charge were given and Mrs. Osborne was formally remanded for a week without bail.

From the treasury officials it is now learned that Mrs. Osborne has agreed to plead guilty and be sentenced to prison in order to save her husband from dismissal from the army.

FOUND GUILTY.

Crooked Officials Must Answer to the Allegheny Courts.

Pittsburg, Feb. 5.—David Hastings, exclerk of the Allegheny City markets, has been on trial on the charge of embezzlement of money collected from the stall keepers, which he failed to turn into the city treasury. The jury found a verdict last evening. The verdict was sealed and opened by the court this morning. Hastings is found guilty.

The trials of Mayor Wyman, of Allegheny, on the charge of misappropriating city funds, will be called next Monday, and the trial of ex-Mayor Pierson, on the same charge, will be called next Tuesday.

THE BRONSON ESTATE.

Appraisers Fix the Value at $738,000.

The Old Man's Odd Way of Hoarding His Money — Stored Away In Nooks and Corners—The Famous Belt.

Messrs. Merrell, Kumler and Conrad, the gentlemen appointed to appraise the estate of the late Calvin Bronson, have about completed their work. Up to last night the total appraisement amounted to $727,000. A few pieces of stray property will, it is believed, bring it up to $738,000.

The appraisers have been astonished to find sums of money stored away in desks and drawers in sums varying from $50 to $300 or $400.

It is a peculiar fact that not a single bond has yet been found or paper of any kind. It is thought strange that a man of such wealth should not have invested some of his money in bonds.

The belt upon which Mr. Bronson set such value was found yesterday by the appraisers. Fred Kumler would like to purchase the article but it may come too high.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE

The mayor will also be one of the committee.

"The public should know the truth about the city gas plant," said the mayor to a Bee, "and I think this committee will find it out."

Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 5.—R. M. Whiting, ex-commodore of the Brooklyn yacht club and well known in yachting circles throughout the country, died last night, aged 77 years, of paralysis.

BIG BLAZE.

Cincinnati, Feb. 5.—Barders Sons' tannery, at the corner of Stark and Branch streets, was damaged by fire this morning to the amount of $30,000. The blaze started in the bark shed and spread rapidly. Insurance about $15,000.

GEORGE FIELDS TURNED DOWN

By Governor McKinley—He Cannot Be Penitentiary Manager.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer this morning has the following special from Columbus anent George Fields, Toledo's leader of the colored hosts:

Senator John P. Green, John H. Cisco and Charles Cottrell, three prominent colored republicans, called on Gov. McKinley this afternoon in the interest of George Fields, a colored man of Toledo, for member of the board of penitentiary managers. The governor informed his callers that he had decided upon the members of the board and could not appoint Mr. Fields to the place. He advised them to look around for something else for their candidate. They left the executive office in disgust, and one of the trio said this evening they would ask nothing else of this administration, as they had been turned down on all sides.

THE LIBBEY GLASS CO.

Propose a New Departure April 1—The Old Men Will All Return.

It has not been generally known that the Libbey Glas company has been considering for several months an enticing offer to locate at Muncie, Ind. The offer has been rejected, and on April 1 the company will renew its old activity with a greatly enlarged force of men.

The works will be increased in capacity and the old men who left here to work for the company at Findlay will return to Toledo.

The company has perfected the apparatus whereby oil can be economically used as a fuel, and this is said to be the secret of the new departure.

THE LAKE SHORE CAVES.

It Modifies the Alton Boycott To-Day

And Will Accept Business Over That Road From Connecting Lines—Toledo Roads Glad It is Over.

Until to-day all railroads but the Lake Shore had given in to the Chicago & Alton in the matter of the recent boycott and this morning the Lake Shore caves, for its Toledo agents were notified that the circular of April 11, 1891, abrogating reciprocal relations with the Chicago & Alton would be modified as follows, commencing to-day:

"This company will accept tickets coming to it from connecting roads and reading to and from points on the Alton, or beyond, via that road, and baggage checked through by foreign roads to or from points on said road or beyond will likewise be accepted."

The order goes on to state that the Lake Shore agents will not be allowed to ticket passengers over the Alton. However, all connecting lines with the Lake Shore will be able to act as they please in the matter of issuing tickets over the Alton and so everything is lovely in passenger circles once more.

Such local lines as the Toledo & Ohio Central; the C., H. V. & T.; the Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati; the Wheeling & Lake Erie, were never desirous of diverting business from the Alton, but they were forced to do so when the Lake Shore, one of their principal east and west connections, refused to accept such tickets.

The Free Wool Bill Remains in Somebody's Pocket.

The Port of Sandusky to be Given the Bonding Privilege—Doings of the Ways and Means Committee.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The free wool bill was not laid before the ways and means committee this morning. It was not even mentioned. Chairman Springer, when asked whether the bill would be laid before the committee at the next meeting made the laconic answer: "Probably."

The session of the committee was devoted to routine business. A favorable report was ordered on a senate bill to extend to the port of Sandusky, O., the privilege of the transportation of dutiable merchandise without appraisement.

The committee also agreed to report a resolution referring to the appropriate committees of the house parts of the president's message, and another resolution providing for the printing of the statement made by Assistant Secretary Spaulding concerning the finances of the government was also reported.

ANOTHER FIND.

The Western Mountains Are Giving Up Their Richness.

Denver, Col., Feb. 5.—Another big mining strike has been made at Cripple Creek, at the head of the Squaw Gulch on Gold Hill.

Yesterday, at the depth of 13 feet, a chimney of ore was discovered which is a perfect mass of shining gold. The size of the chimney is not definitely known but it shows the full size of the shaft, and samples taken from it show it to be marvelously rich, conservative mining men estimating the value at from $12,000 to $25,000 per ton.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles

London wheat market firmer. Corn quiet and turn dearer.. Weather fine. Liverpool wheat steady, better demand; quotations unchanged. Corn dearer.

Liverpool received in past six days 443,300 bu. wheat, of which 210,000 were American; and 285,000 bu. corn.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 474,900 bu., compared with 256,209 bu. on the same day last year.

French Financial Trouble.—Paris, Feb. 4.—The afternoon papers confirm rumors that have been in circulation here regarding the financial troubles of a large bank in this city. Two of the members of the firm, it is announced, were arrested last night, and were subjected to a most searching examination, which lasted throughout the night. The names of several houses are mentioned as being in trouble, but there is no certainty as yet as to which one it is that is involved. Shares of the Bank of Paris have dropped 40 francs since Monday, and shares of the Credit Foncier fell 25 francs to-day.

Look at the following statement of exports of flour to Cuba.—The reduced duty of American flour imported to Cuba under the reciprocity treaty went into effect January 1 last.

Consul General Williams telegraphs the state department that the receipts of flour at the port of Havana for the month of January last were as follows: From the United States, 67,371 sacks; from Spain none. The receipts for the month of January, 1891, were: From the United States 2,720 sacks; from Spain 38,490 sacks.

The exports of flour to Cuba from the ports of New York, New Orleans, Mobile, and Key West in January, 1892, amounted to 67,470 barrels or sacks. The exports from the same ports in January, 1891, were 9,234 barrels.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are about 140,000 bus. in excess of yesterday, the gain being at Minneapolis and Duluth.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 455,051 bus. and flour to an aggregate of 750,000 bus. The export of corn was 750,120 bus. and of oats 20,426 bus.

English markets as reported herein are firmer, better demand, without change in prices of wheat. Corn dearer.

Puts and Call on The Exchange.

In the discussions before the committee on agriculture in the house at Washington a prominent place is given to the species of trading known as Puts and Calls, and it seems to be an element that is seized upon to bring reproach on the regular and legitimate business of the Exchanges. It is time for the officers elected to govern these Exchanges to put their little feet upon this feature of unmitigated gambling. When appealed to before the congressional committee, Chicago and other dealers respond that the trade is unlawful by their rules and is equally so under the state law. But these gentlemen do not tell all the truth. They don't state what every one in the trade knows to be true, that members of the Chicago and other Exchanges, permit this species of trading to an almost unlimited extent—that it is and has been the daily business and the daily bread of great numbers of buyers and sellers of these options, from that it is openly done, without restraint from the officers of the Exchanges. Many people do not understand the separation between this kind of trading and that which is legitimate and lawful on the floor of the Exchange, and therefore, it casts a stain upon every member. It is time to put a stop to it. If it cannot be controlled and suppressed and as many objectional features as possible eliminated from the deal, this or some other congress will surely attempt to suppress the entire system of future dealing by statute law.

In line with the above this Toledo exchange has to-day passed a resolution favoring a federal law to prevent this kind of trading. If such a law is passed, and the United States grand juries' attention called to the nefarious practice, its perpetrators will be severely dealt with. But meantime there are state laws, and the managers of the exchange should invoke their aid. What were they elected for?

Here is a copy of the proceedings of our exchange:

To Hon. W. E. Haynes Member of Congress, Washington, D. C.:

Please inform the committee on agriculture that this exchange unanimously approved the passage of a federal law which will make trading in puts or calls a criminal offense, punishable by fine and imprisonment. This class of trade is not recognized by any of the exchanges, but is largely dealt in by some of their members, and should be stopped.

This exchange unanimously opposes any bill to restrict legitimate trading in futures, which will tend to destroy competition and depress prices.

The Markets To-Day.

If the daily, and weekly, and monthly statements of this circular needed corroboration and proof, that American markets, this year, were the arbiters of the value of breadstuffs, we have it mighty handy. Yesterday our markets in this country showed a firm and confident front. Prices were only 3-4 to 1c higher. This morning English markets were firmer with increased demand, close decidedly higher, or are so reported. Since wheat was about $1.00 at lake ports we have ourselves to blame for its decline. With no advantage in the increase of exports, or in any direction, we have simply day by day voluntarily decreased our prices. If there is a remnant of good trading sense left to our American dealers we shall put the price back where it started. We shall export just as much wheat at $1.00 at lake ports as we shall at 80c.

Our wheat markets are all decidedly higher to-day. The shorts are trying to recover their wheat sold at low prices. France is sending out bad crop reports, or some one is doing it for her. Foreign markets were all quoted higher, and the closing prices show more than 2c advance.

Corn is also higher, and May is about 1c up on May east and west.

Liverpool is reported 1-2c up all around. Paris reported 3c bu higher, and Berlin somewhat higher.

In New York February wheat closed 3c higher; May, 2 3-8c higher. February corn 1c and May 7-8c higher, and February oats 1-2c higher.

In Chicago February wheat closed 2 3-8 and May 2 3-8c higher. February corn 5-8c and May 1c up.

In Toledo.—Business in wheat has been fairly active all day. Opening prices were only a shade better, and the market was quiet for two hours, but finally got marching orders and up it went, and closed at an advance of 2 1-8c, the best prices of the day. On the call May wheat sold at 94 1-2c. After the call May sold at 94 3-8c and closed at 96 1-4c.

Cash wheat was more active and very firmly held. The firmness checked sales. No. 2 soft sold at 92c at opening, and up to 93 1-2c, and at close the price was 93 3-4c, a gain of 2 3-4c. No business was done in other grades.

Corn was higher. No. 2 at 40c; No. 3 at 39 3-4c; No. 4 at 38 1-2c. No. 3 yellow at 39 1-2c to 39 3-4c. No trading in oats. Rye No. 2 at 83c. Clover seed was dull and lower to sell; very little business reported. On the call March sold at $5 67 1-2. After the call March was offered at $5 65. No. 2 sold at $5 37 1-2.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

A Spiritualist Exposer—Margaret Mather—The Bryons in the Plunger.

Hazel the spiritualist exposer, a young man who has been giving many interesting entertainments exposing the tricks of the so called spiritual mediums will be at Wheeler's Sunday evening and show up as a fraud what is claimed by many to be supernatural. The Utica Herald says: What Hazel told his audience at the opera house last night comes very near being right. His manifestations and mental tests were well worth the pittance paid to see them.

Margaret Mather.

To Margaret Mather's credit be it said that she has always environed herself with a strong, adequate company and one that possessed in its composition actors and actresses of more than mediocre talent. Understanding this fact the management this year take particular pains in pointing to her present company and it is the strongest she has ever had. As an evidence of this they give the names of several well known people. First and foremost among the names brought forward is that of Otis Skinner who will be pleasantly remembered here for the good work he has done in the past with the late Lawrence Barrett and with Edwin Booth, especially in the presentation of Macbeth by the Booth-Modjeska combination. Next comes Joseph E. Whiting whose worke is so well known that it needs no commendations. Amflong other well known names listed are those of H. A. Langdon, Henry Patterson, White Whittlesey, James Cooper, Gilmore Scott, Carrie Jamison, Josephine Eytinge and Katherine Murray.

This company will be at the Wheeler's next Thursday evening.

The Plunger.

Oliver Bryon in his latest success, The Plunger, is the attraction announced at the People's for the week beginnink next Monday night.

The peculiarity about the Plunger is that the hero is always plunging after something.

First he plunges after a widow, and then he plunges for robbers. The scenes of the play are laid in the state of New York. One act discloses a villa on the picturesque Hudson river, showing a view of the historic Garfield hut. An elevated railroad station is represented in the fourth act, with an illuminated view of the New York postoffice, and the offices of a number of well-known newspapers in the distance.

A rain and thunder storm is also a feature of this act, which concludes with the rescue of a woman from a railroad track just before the train is about to pass over her. Mr. Byron will be seen in a light comedy role, that of Dexter Digit, and Mrs. Byron will be seen as the Widow Clover, a genteel Irish woman, who has a mania for elaborate costumes. The supporting company is said to be good.

TOLEDO, OHIO, FEBRUARY 5, 1892.

From Columbus comes the doubtful report that Representative Heller has made two speeches this session.

The new French tariff law is fashioned after our own McKinley fabrication, and like that, announces at the outset that its purpose is to check importations. Already the promoters of the law in this country have denied its hitherto avowed purpose, which was the same.

If the new tenth district shall be as provided in the senate bill Gov. Ashley, of profit-sharing fame, will very likely crowd aside Hamilton, Emmick, Griffin and the other congress seekers. Jeems can be a stalwart on occasion, especially when Mr. Ashley's personal interests are the most concerned.

The Massachusetts republican committee has secured the governor of Ohio as a speaker in the coming fall campaign. The Boston Herald says: "This announcement is calculated to please all parties in this section of the country. Gov. McKinley is a pleasing speaker, and makes a great many votes for the other side, as has already been demonstrated by his appearance here on the stump."

Neither President Harrison nor Gov. McKinley will mention the Ohio gerrymander in future messages. It is their gerrymander this time. Shrewd McKinley, he said his say first and can now wash his hands of the disgrace and have the comfortable feeling that he is better than his party—so far as words uttered in safe places may indicate.

Legislation is started in the council to divide East Toledo into two wards. This is very proper, though it would be better to make three wards instead of two. The remarkable growth of the east side is gratifying; it is probable that during the present decade the population will be much more than doubled. Give them plenty of wards. They ought to have increased representation in the council.

Republican oragns wax very wroth because congress purposes to cut down the salaries of public officers, which are out of proportion to the labor performed, and to dismiss a number of sinecures whose services consist only in drawing their salaries. Of course they denounce such wise measures of economy because it is a direct rebuke of the reckless wastefulness of their party, but the plain people who pay their taxes and trust their public servants will appreciate such efforts in their behalf. The cry of financial distress of the poor officeholder is too big a burlesque.

Bank defalcations with suicide, insanity, escape or (rarely) the penitentiary, are multiplying to an alarming extent. It is pitiable proof of the weakness of humanity not to be able to withstand the temptation of money when it is within reach, though the risk of detection and disgrace is so great. With this craze for wealth gotten suddenly and without labor possessing the present generation, what may be expected of the next, by both example and inheritance? One need not be a pessimist to tremble with apprehension for his countrymen and his country, when men whom the world has reason to consider strong and steadfast lay down their honor before this moloch of gold. A little time ago a disgrace of this kind, detailed in the newspapers was read and discussed in all its particulars. To-day it is become too common for more than passing notice except well known parties are involved. A defaulting bank cashier was taken to an asylum in Louisville, Kentucky, yesterday, a raving maniac. As usual, he showed no signs of insanity until the disgrace of discovery overtook him. It is a strange anomaly—a man will prefer death to the disgrace of arrest and punishment, but will be a cheerful, comfortable sort of person, perhaps saying his prayers with regularity, while the secret of his thieving is with himself and his own conscience. What sort of false education develops this contradictory character? or does the greed for gain overwhelm and absorb all there is in a man until he has but the one mania? Are we indeed become, as our enemies accuse us, a nation of thieves and rascals? And is every man's honesty simply a question of opportunity and temptation?

NEW YORK NOT IN IT.

The Chicago Times, and Herald also, are out, for a western candidate to head the democratic national ticket this year. The Herald favors Palmer. The Times sums up the result of the yielding democracy to New York domination in the last thirty years as follows:

In 1864, Maj-Gen. McClellan, nominally of New Jersey, practically a New Yorker. Defeat.
In 1868, Horatio Seymour. Defeat.
In 1872, Horace Greeley,. Defeat.
In 1876, Samuel J. Tilden, and victory turned to defeat.
In 1880, Maj.-Gen. Hancock, accredited to Pennsylvania but practically a New Yorker. Defeat.
In 1884, Grover Cleveland, and, wonderful to relate, victory.
In 1888, Grover Cleveland, and, wonderful to relate, defeat.

The argument is that, while New York remains the empire state, "The seat of empire has been changed to the Mississippi valley, which the republican party has had the acumen to recognize in selecting and electing candidates from this section," "Lincoln of Illinois, Grant of Illinois, Hayes of Ohio, Garfield of Ohio, Harrison of Indiana—and all the while democracy has been pinning its faith to New York.

It is furthered argued that New York though great, is uncerain, being sometimes democratic and sometimes republican and sometimes both, as when the gubernational vote was cast for Hill and the presidential vote for Harrison. And further, that the difference in the party at the present time are such that, to allow either faction to name the head of the ticket is to "invite defeat."

As western candidates, any one of whom the democracy can march to success by choosing, the Times names: Boies of Iowa, or Palmer of Illinois, and Vilas of Wisconsin.

The people of Johnstown in the Conemaugh valley have given a rare illustration of gratitude. Yesterday there was dedicated, in the city distinguished for disaster and misfortune, the "Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital." It was built by the state flood commission at a cost of $65,000. There are several reasons for congratulation and satisfaction over the event. One is the proof of a generous people's charity, that there should remain a fund after the distress of the victims had been relieved, and again that so good use was made of it. The people of the city expressed their gratitude by resolutions in eloquent words and to enshrine their sentiments in tangible form, resolved, in mass meeting assembled that corporations, firms and individuals of Conemaugh Valley should each and all give one day's earnings (May 31, the anniversary day), to create a fund for the erection of a noble group of statuary that shoul "express the world's great goodness and our gratitude." And so out of the bitterness of that terrible experience comes this little flavor of sweetness at the last.

"The claim that 'George Eliot was prouder of the ability to make a good omelet than of being able to write Robert Elsmere,' opens the question, could she really make a good omelet? When men can be persuaded that a woman can sharpen a pencil or throw a stone in the right direction they may believe in a feminine artist in omelettes, but not till then."—Philadelphia Times. This effort of the Times to be funny at the expense of women of brains will really succeed. Not that there is point in the time-worn-out joke, but because the kind of women referred to are the ones who will appreciate the unconscious humor of attributing the writing of Robert Elsmere to George Eliot.

Among the Christian traits recited of the late Spurgeon is that of his inability to withhold his substance from the poor. It is said that his friends gave him 5,000 pounds on his 50th birthday, and it all went in small and helpful charities to deserving persons, while a 6,000 pound testimonial from his congregation on the anniversary of his silver wedding was by him at once divided up among the orphanage, the pastors' college, and other institutions of his church.

The New York newspapers make a specialty of running the world in its different important branches. The Herald settled the Italian and the Chilean difficulty, the Sun is a smasher on general principles, the World assumes to have a pull-back string on the war clouds and now the Mail and Express is telling how all Europe is following its advice. A sort of home journal might benefit the metropolis.

Three hundred Chinese killed in battle and 400 drowned by a sinking steamer, reduces the heathen contingency by this much. The Review of Reviews reprints a cartoon from a Chinese newspaper in which Chinamen are spearing prostrate missionaries with evident enjoyment, and others are dancing with delight around a bon-fire of bibles. Wonder if Blair isn't glad he didn't get to go?

Rev. Thomas Dixon, of New York, says that only one-eighth of the population of that city ever go inside a church, and deplores this fact as an illustration of the general depravity that prevails in cities. Mr. Dixon should join in the new movement of his brother clergy who, finding the people will not go to church, are now taking the church to the people.

Coal of good quality for steaming purposes has been found on the shores of the strait of Magellan. The find was accidentally made by the captain of an Italian steamer, compelled to stop in Shagnet bay for repairs, and is another hint of the unsuspected and untapped wealth mother earth holds in her keeping for future generations of men.

The Sunday issue of the Chicago Tribune had illustrations of apparatus used in turning somersaults. Monday's Times explained that this apparatus "is kept in Editor Medill's private office ready for use every time an election approaches in which the tariff is an issue."

Next Friday evening watch out for "the meeting" of Jupiter and Venus (they will be only four hundred millions miles apart). It's all on account of the observer's line of vision. Enjoy the spectacle, however, and do not bother about the astronomical fact.

It is said Vice-President Morton desires it to be understood that he does not want a renomination, prefering to be "left severely alone." He must be very greedy for that sort of treatment. Surely no vice-president of these United States ever had more of it.

An exchange, casting about for "a war cloud" to talk of now the Chilean war is over, falls back on "Heresy," which is always with us.

THE TOLEDO PRESS CLUB.

Annual Election of Officers Yesterday Afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Toledo Press club was held yesterday afternoon at headquarters in the King block, with President N. D. Cochran in the chair. The choice for officers fell upon the following, all of whom were elected by acclamation:

President—Robinson Locke.
Vice President—M. P. Murphy.
Secretary—Blaque Wilson.
Treasurer—Charles Caughling.
Executive Committee—The officers, N. D. Cochran, Wm. Beatty.

Mr. Locke, in a brief address, thanked the club for the honor bestowed, and outlined many of the points of usefulness the club could utilize for the advancement of Toledo. The other officers also acknowledged the compliment paid them, and prmised faithful service.

The thanks of the club were extended to the retiring president, Mr. Cochran, for the impartial and efficient manner in which he had discharge the duties of his office during the past year.

Mr. E. R. Waite was elected to membership.

A committee to consider the advisibility of preparing for the annual reception was appointed, consisting of the following: Geo. W. Stevens, S. W. Bolles, N. D. Cochran, M. P. Murphy and J. B. Batelle.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That in appreciation of the favors always cheerfully extended by Mr. John E. Gunckel to the members of the press of Toledo, the rules are suspended, and he is hereby made an honorary member of the Toledo Press club. That the secretary fill out a certificate to that effect, and present it to Mr. Gunckel with the compliments of the club.

Several matters of interest to the club were informally discussed, and adjournment was taken until next Thursday, to consider the report of the entertainment committee.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

Will Toledoans Greet Him at Ann Arbor?

Ex-President Cleveland delivers an address at Ann Arbor on the 22d inst. to the students of the university, and in the evening will go to Detroit, where he is to be tendered a reception. Many Toledoans are desirous of meeting the ex-president, and if a sufficient number signify a willingness to go, it is understood the Ann Arbor road will arrange an excursion at a sufficiently reduced rate to put the trip within the reach of all. Of course, it requires some one to take hold of the matter, or it is possible nothing will come of it. It has been suggested that the Lucas County Central club would be the proper organization to move, and this is respectfully referred to President Byron Ritchie.

The Present and Best Policy.

A general revision of the tariff, with a view of carry out the doctrine that all taxation should be for public purposes, is desirable and is bound to come, but at the present time it is impracticable, and the policy that promises to be productive of the best results is to attack in detail the worst features of the existing tariff. —Erie Herald.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Grant monument for Brooklyn will be the work of William Ordway Partridge and will cost $50,000.

T. Thomas Fortune, the colored orator and editor, is about to issue a novel with the title of "A Man Without a Race."

Samuel Campbell, of Port Royal, is the oldest school teacher in the United States, having trained the young idea for 57 years.

Ex-Gov. Thomas T. Crittenden, of Missouri, was recently in Washington, where his handsome face and white hair attracted much complimentary notice.

Eugene Richter, the leader of the liberal party of Germany, is able to commit long tables of figures to memory, and when Prince Bismarck was in power often corrected him.

Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, was asked the other day if he was a candidate for the presidential nomination and smilingly repiled: "Every small boy in the United States is a candidate for the presidency."

Cardinal Miecisaus Ledochowski, the newly appointed prefect of the propaganda at Rome, is, like Manning and Gibbons, a man of tall and ascetic figure. His face is broad and square, but the features are delicately cut and his eyes are luminous.

Gen. O. O. Howard is not a tall man, but he has a distinctively military bearing and is easily picked out in a company. He invariably wears a military coat that hides an empty coat sleeve, he having lost an arm in the battle of Fair Oaks.

The young khedive of Egypt is a prompt and ready speaker, and has had sufficient experience in debate to enable him to tackle his ministers and give them to understand that if there is any talking going on he means to hold up his own corner of it.

Charles B. Lewis, better known as M. Quad, has signed a contract to go into the American Press association, where his salary will be much larger than it was on the World, and his work a good deal less. He will continue to make New York his home.

Simon Newcomb, senior professor of mathematics in the United States navy and professor of mathematics and astronomy at Johns Hopkins university, has just received his diploma of election as an honorary member of the Royal Institute of London.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That the Polish fair will come to a close to-morrow night.

That Toledo bank stock is in high favor as an investment.

That postoffice business gives a fair index of the growth of the city.

That it is possible the Tenth will soon be numbered among the city's wards.

That the splash of the oar cannot further be heard among the O. Y. C. members.

That vessel captains are longing for the day when they can get on to the deep.

That only about three weeks remain of the social season before the ushering in of Lent.

That recent promotions on the Wheeling road were well-deserved, and will prove satisfactory to all.

That a large number of citizens will go to Ann Arbor on the 22d to hear ex-President Cleveland.

That there is a more satisfied air in all the rooms of the government building since the senatorial election.

That recent sales of real estate show that prices are pretty firm, and that Toledo earth is considered pretty valuable.

That a few more concerns like the Woolson Spice company would put the city into ship-shape against all comers.

That Col. Parsons has told the people too many fairy stories on the supply of gas to be now considered as first-class authority.

That ex-Squire Nicholas is doing a neat job of hustling for nomination as one of the candidates for the justice of the peace on the republican city ticket.

That the Maumee electric road will come one of these fine days, if the push and energy of Horace Waldbridge goes for anything, and it usually does.

That music-loving people of Toledo have been treated to several good things this year, and will enjoy another rare attraction when Walter Emerson puts in an appearance.

That should the house agree to the senate redistricting bill, there will be a skirmish among the republican politicians of Lucas, Wood and Fulton counties that will try the patience of the people.

To Make Culture Hum.

It was, of course, a Chicago gentleman who said that when the people of Chicago went in for culture they just made culture hum. Boston is beginning to realize this. Professor White, of Harvard, the Greek instructor, has been offered the Greek chair in the new Chicago University, which is to be opened next autumn, and may accept. His present salary at Harvard is $4,000, while Chicago offers $7,000. It is a fight between culture and cash.—Toronto Empire.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due.

Various people are being assigned the credit of bringing our beloved republic through the Chilean strain with honor and dignity. Our own opinion is that the catastrophe of war was averted by the calm, firm cautious, patriotic, self-poised President of the United States, backed by the throbbing war spirit of Elder Shepard.—New York Advertiser.

They Are a Public Nuisance.

Mr. Frank Slavin has been imitating the great example of Mr. John L. Sullivan by making himself intentionally drunk and disagreeable in public places. These so-called "fighters" are getting to be a great nuisance and should be suppressed. They are of no use—they will not even pound each other to death.—Kansas City Star.

Then and Now.

Mr. Reed can't hold his own in the house now quite as easily as he could when he combined the speaker, the rules, a quorum, and all the rest of the house, in himself.—Wheeling Register.

The Pennsylvania Kind.

Pennsylvania is prolific of patriotic men whose patriotism is of the kind that will not allow any but themselves to govern the country and absorb its revenues.—Greenville Progress.

That Is Ben's Way.

The autobiography of Ben Butler is notable for the cheerfully decisive way in which the old man calls pretty nearly everybody else a liar.—Pittsburg Leader.

THE FOURTH LECTURE

In the Toledo Institute of University Extension.

By the subject and syllabus of Prof. H. C. Adams, lecture for this evening, it will be seen this is one of the most valuable in the present course. The attendance will no doubt be limited only by the capacity of the High school hall. The announcement for this, the fourth in Prof. Adams' course on economics, is:

Changes in Political Economy Since Mill. (B) Some Leading Doctrines.

1. The term "wealth" has come to represent an absolute rather than a relative idea. (a) Mill's view. (b) The modern view.

2. The term "productive labor" has been expanded to embrace all useful members of society. (a) The mercantilist view. (b) The physiocratic view. (c) The view of English economists. (d) The modern view.

3. The "wage fund doctrine" has been abandoned. (a) Statement of the wage fund doctrine. (b) Errors of the wage fund doctrine. (c) Abandonment of the doctrine destroyed the symmetry of English political economy.

4. Profits have come to be regarded as a form of wages rather than an element of interest.

5. The need of the doctrine of consumption is beginning to be recognized.

6. The meaning of all these changes is that political economy is ceasing to be the industrial philosophy of a class, and is coming to be the philosophy of industrial society.

CHICAGO POLICE.

A Big Force That Is Kept Busy—Bad Place for a Poor Man.

Sergeant Sell, of the Chicago police force, is in the city for a visit and will also go further east. The Chicago force numbers 2,300 men besides the park police," said the sergeant in conversation with a Bee, "and now a call has been made for 300 more men, who will be placed in service as soon as possible. The Chicago police are kept very busy, as there is a great deal of crime in that city, much of which is due to the large population unable to obtain employment. There are thousands of men in Chicago out of work, and the police stations lodge about 1,500 every night. Young men and old are continually rushing to Chicago, and seem to think that they only need go there to get plenty of good employment, when the fact is that the city is flooded with labor that it cannot use."

ANOTHER SUIT

As a Result of the Late Railroad Wreck at the Tunnel.

Another damage suit was filed in common pleas court to-day resulting from the wreck which occurred in Toledo on the Lake Shore railroad some time ago.

The suit is brought by Catharine McQueen, administratrix, to recover $10,000 damages for the death of her husband, Thomas F. McQueen.

Thomas F. McQueen received a pass to ride from Elkhart, Ind., to Toledo, on the Lake Shore railroad, which the plaintiff alleges the agent of the company received and he was a passenger of train No. 6. When the collision occurred the petition alleges that he was in the rear coach and was scalded to death by steam from the F. & P. M. engine.

INTERESTED IN THE FAIR.

Emperor William Takes a Hand at Booming Our Show.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—The emperor has shown, in an unmistakable manner, the interest he takes in the Columbian exhibition in recent conversations he has had with Krupp, the famous iron master, and Schlutow, manager of the ship ubilding works at Stettin.

He urged them by all means to exhibit the latest products of their vast industries at the fair and pointed out to them the great advantages to be derived for themselves and for Germany by such an exhibition.

DENNIS KILLEN DEAD.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—Dennis Killen, the well-known pugilist, died yesterday of erysipelas. He was 28 years old, a native of Philadelphia and a brother of Pat Killen who died of erysipelas in Chicago last fall.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY.

Meaning of the Word "Toledo."

"I should judge from the name that there would be a great many Jews in Toledo," said the erudite gentleman who is more generally known as Mrs. Frank Leslie's husband, to a Bee as the Press club special pulled into the Union depot the other morning.

"There are quite a number of that race in Toledo," replied the reporter, "but why should the name suggest the peculiar idea that Toledo is a Jewish city?"

"It is very simple. Toledo of Spain was known as the Jerusalem of the west.

"The name of this ancient theocratic capitl is supposed to be derived from the Hebrew Toledoth, meaning 'the city of generations.' As a Spanish traveler I can testify that to this day Jews are to be found in Toledo, and the tradition of the race is that Toledo was their city of refuge when Jerusalem was taken by Nebuchadnezzar. The Hebrews, you will remember, then fled to 'Tarshish, the 'uttermost parts of the earth.' Oddly enough, one of the most active capitalists interested in the redevelopment of the famous mines of Tharsis is a Hebrew. These mines are situated about 30 miles from Palos, the port of embarkation of Columbus on the voyage which Chicago is so anxious to have celebrated at the expense of the United States treasury, and the engineers in charge show you there heaps of ancient slag, which prove that the Roman and Phoenician miners were perfect masters of the art of smelting, so completely did they extract all the copper from the ore.

"That the Jews of Toledo welcomed the invading Berbers (who were themselves a half Jewish people) as against the Gothic princes by whom the Jews had been 'squeezed' is doubtless true. But it is equally true that when the Moors in their turn had taken to oppressing and plundering the Jews of Toledo in the eleventh century, gave most material aid to the Christian Spaniards and helped Alonso VI. to seat himself on the 'Imperial throne at Toledo. This was in 1805, centuries after the Moorish conquest."

He Hailed from Toledo.

He had on a cowboy hat—he had long hair and fierce black eyes—there was a claw from the foot of a grizzly bear dangling from his watch chain. You could size him up only in one way—he had killed his man, or perhaps half a dozen of them. If he hadn't fought Indians and stood up to the bad, bad men of the far west then his looks belied him. He was a quiet unostentatious man, as all nervy men are. He was reading a dime novel as all game men do when they travel. Now and then he felt down the back of his neck to see if his bowie knife was cuddling up to his spine in a proper manner, and now and then he reached down to his boot legs to see that his cargo of revolvers hadn't shifted.

Three or four of us, after taking plenty of time to size him up, decided to ask him how and where he got the wound which had left the scar clear across his left cheek. It looked like the work of Sitting Bull's tomahawk, but we wanted the particulars. So it was agreed that I should work him up to tell his story, and after a quarter of an hour of diplomacy I had shaped matters so I dared observe:

"That is a bad scar you have on your cheek, and there is no doubt a story with it."

"Yes, sir, there is," he replied.

"We should like to hear the particulars, if you have no objection."

"Oh, the story don't amount to much," he modestly remarked.

"But you certainly had a close call. How many Indians were around you?"

"Indians? I didn't see no Indians."

"Oh! Perhaps you were in a western stage when it was held up, and you got that scar fighting off the road agents?"

"Never saw a road agent in my life," he said.

"Tackled a bad man out in Montana?"

"Never was out in Montana and never saw a bad man."

"But you had a fight," I persisted.

"No I didn't."

"Well, perhaps you'll be kind enough to explain how you got that scar?"

"I will. I went into a restaurant in Toledo and ordered a pumkin pie. The waiter brought me a squash pie instead. I kicked. The owner of the place, who was a woman, got mad and slashed me with an old case knife. I afterwards settled with her for $3 in cash. That's the story, sir."

"But why—why are you wearing those things belonging to a western terror?" I asked.

"These things? Oh, I got 'em of an actor for $4. He had to sell out or walk home, and as the walking wasn't good he sold."

"And may I ask who you are?" I inquired, as an awful silence fell upon our crowd.

"Certainly you can. I've been working for a farmer near Monroe all summer for 'leven dollars a month, but I quit the other day, and I am going to Toledo to get a stock of stomach bitters to sell on the road. Needn't nobody be afraid of me. I ain't loaded, and if I was I haven't got the sand to go off. Never tackled but one man, and I hain't got through running away from him yet!"

Then we went to the other end of the car and tried to call the convention to order and do some resolving, but it was a failure. Everybody seemed to want to sit and think.—Detroit Free Press.

Just Like Gunckel.

That genial teller of fairy tales, Gunckel, has evidently been down in Cleveland. The Leader of to-day says:

A traveling man at the Forest City house last evening related an interesting story of a scene he said he had witnessed during a recent trip. "I went west from Cleveland over the Lake Shore road," he said, "and two excitable Germans were among the passengers on the train. Their actions indicated that they had not traveled very extensively, and they took a nervous interest in all the incidents of the trip. At Toledo both disembarked to obtain a view of the town for a few moments, and one of them failed to catch the train when it pulled out of the depot. His companion seemed very much worried over the misfortune and expressed his sympathy with some six-cornered words of regret. As we approached Wauseon the conductor appeared at the door of the coach and sang out: "Wau-se-on." The little German was on his feet in a moment and turning to the conductor he said: "Yaw, yaw, he was on, but he got off at Toledo."

Then he looked around and wondered why everybody was laughing.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The Standard Is Trying to Wake Up the Britishers.

London, Feb. 5.—The Standard, in discussing the Chicago world's fair, comments on Col. Sadler's report by saying that the trading nations of the whole world will be in competition there, and it is to be hoped that manufacturers and business men of Great Britain will awake to this fact.

At present it seems as if England did not realize the importance of the opportunity offered, as only £25,000 has been accorded it.

It would be a serious misfortune for England not to be adequately represented, and the government should arrange for all the space required by British exhibitors.

Friendship hall was filled to its full seating capacity last evening, at the regular meeting of the Catholic club. Musical numbers were furnished by Misses Nolan and Grady, accompanied by Mrs. Stalcup; Miss Petee, accompanied by Miss Smith; and Prof. Paulin. Dr. Monroe read a paper the title of which was "The Hints She Gave Me;" Miss Helen Nolan read an essay, and Father Burns gave some humorous selections. The evening was a delightful one.

Union of Unions.

The Union of Unions met with Willard union yesterday afternoon at the Third Presbyterian church. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Nicholas, after which the secretary's report was read. Miss Cora B. Taylor, of Cleveland, organizer of Juvenile Good Templars associations, was present, and gave a short but interesting talk on this work. The following committee was appointed to secure a lecturer on scientific temperance for the teachers' institute in August: Mesdames Callard, Bartlett, Bentley, Clark, and Edwards, to act as such committee. On motion it was decided to send for a lately published work on the history of the decade of scientific temperance in public schools. The advisability of a W. C. T. U. lunch stand for the coming season was discussed. The next meeting will be held with Woodbridge union, at St. John's M. E. church, Thursday, March 3.

Annie Besant says: "My suggestion to the women's clubs throughout the country is to work for human brotherhood and use their influence in spreading the feeling that prayers will be won, not by working for our sex as against the other, but as for both, common service to the race being the true ideal."

ALL IS PEACE.

The Thiede-Drover Suit Settled to the Satisfaction of All Concerned.

The case of Rudolph Thiede against Frederick S. Drover, which has been on hearing in Judge Harmon's room of the common pleas court for several days, was settled yesterday at noon, mention of which was made in yesterday's issue of the Bee. It appears a deed in trust of all the real estate owned by Mr. Thiede had been made to Mr. Drover for the benefit of the heirs thereof, giving the trustee power to collect rent and transact all business of the estate. It also provided to whom the property should revert after the death of Mr. Thiede. This deed per agreement has been set aside, and Mr. Thiede will manage his own real estate. A term of this deed also provided that the business managed by Mr. Drover for Mr. Thiede and heirs should extend for a period of ten years.

By the terms of the agreement Mr. Drover will remain in the management of this business until 1894. The plaintiff in the suit will pay the costs also the costs of defending the suit.

AFTER THE GRIPPE.

The Grippe Responsible for More Deaths after Recovery than During its Course—How to Avoid the Danger.

Grippe, in itself, is bad enough, debilitating enough, but it is the after effects, the slowness of recovery that give it its great danger. In most cases, the person did not have sufficient vitality to rally after the disease itself had passed. The forces of nature were too weak to contend with the debility which the Grippe had left.

It is sad to think how many people have died who might have been saved if nature had been properly assisted and fortified after the Grippe had been driven from the system. Many physicians realized this fact and assisted their patients over the dangerous after effects by bracing up and stimulating their systems. This was, and can be done in but one way, and that is by the steady and moderate use of some pure yet powerful stimulant. There is but one absolutely pure and medicinal stimulant known to the profession and to the public, and that is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. The most prominent scientists and physicians of the land endorse its purity and value. It is not a new whiskey, it has been before the public for years. It is not a cheap decoction, but a pure distillation. It imparts a tone to the system possible in no other manner and sends the blood coursing through the veins with renewed vigor. It is superior in every respect and however much any unscrupulous druggist or grocer may seek to lead you to believe to the contrary do not be deceived.

KISSING AND SWEARING.

Sir Edwin Arnold's back again
And has a fund of stories
Concerning life in far Japan,
That land of mellow glories.
And 'mongst a thousand other tales
Upon the subject bearing,
He says the Japs are little versed
In kissing and in swearing.

That settles it for me at least;
I couldn't bear a people
Who'd ask a man to perch himself
On such a moral steeple.
Shades of our Viking sires renowned
For ripping and for tearing!
How could a Briton live a year
Nor vent himself by swearing?

I'm not profane myself; in fact,
The habit's wicked, very;
But things sometimes occur that strain
A mild vocabulary.
And when all nature seems to show
Perverseness overbearing
How easy 'tis to clear the air
With thunderbursts of swearing!

And as for kissing—girls should be
So sweet you can't resist 'em;
If tea-chest damsels were like ours
Some fellow would have kissed 'em.
The rose was made for man's delight,
Else would its scent be missing,
And maidens' lips would tasteless be
Were they not planned for kissing.

Then let Sir Edwin Arnold in
His eastern pleasures revel,
Our customs better fit a man
Whose head and heart are level.
We've heard too much of foreign ways,
I'm serious when I thus sing.
This country's good enough for me
Where kissing goes—and cussing.
—George Horton in Chicago Herald.

In front of a Denver, Col., business house is a sign bearing the following legend: "Money is the Root of all Evil; Give us a few Roots."

Barnes Greeley, the only brother of Horace Greeley, lives a quiet life on the old Greeley farm in Chautauqua county, near Jamestown, N. Y.

The deepest depth of the sea is reported to be at a point 23 miles north of New Guinea, where surroundings showed a depth of 26,850,000 feet.

The Russian colonists in the Woodbine (N. J.) colony, have just forwarded $26 of their savings to aid the famine-stricken in Russia, without distinction of creed.

The flat pieces of iron shaped like a letter S and frequently seen on the walls of old brick buildings, serving as girders, are said to have been old-time symbols of the sun.

An old negress who resides at Morristown, N. J., is said to be at least 106 years old. Although freed from slavery in 1804, she still lives with her original master's family.

The Norfolk Landmark thus attempts to correct a popular impression: "There never was a confederate ironclad or any other ironclad named Merrimac. The confederate ram was the Virginia always. She was constructed upon the hulk of an old United States frigate called the Merrimac."

A Kings City (Colo.) man recently, after a severe illness, entirely forgot the combination to his safe. None of his clerks knew it, and after a long delay he was finally obliged to send to a distance for a man who had formerly been in his employ to open the safe.

Housewives of New England have growing abundantly on the seaside rocks in their neighborhoods little living bottles of indellible ink, not to be excelled in beauty or durability by any manufactured product, since neither acid nor alcohol will affect this juice of the whelk.

The Island of Fowkave in the Gulf of Siam has a peculiar kind of dogs. They are sleek-haired and resemble fox terriers in size and build, but are prick-eared, reddish brown in color (the female being of a lighter shade), with black muzzles and dark lines on the forehead, like those sometimes seen in bulldogs.

"Joss," says a writer in Blackwood, "so far from being, as I, among others, always imagined, a Chinese word, is merely the mispronunciation of the Spanish Dios, God. The discovery of this fell heavily upon me. It reduced my knowledge of Chinese words from two words to one; but I have learned several since."

Last June a young man was arrested in Natick, Mass., because he would not pay his poll tax, amounting to $2, and he has been kept in jail ever since at an expense to the taxpayers of $1.75 per week. The town is losing money on the transaction, but it is vindicating an eternal principle with great success.

A knowledge of the physiology of the human larynx has made it possible to supply artificial voices to people who have been deprived of the one nature gave them, and a number of cases exist where the cavity has been opened and larynx made of suitable material with rubber membranes has been inserted and become practically useful in speech.

John Jordan brought a large white swan from Pendleton the other day and tells a queer story as to how he got it, says the Portland Oregonian. While near his house, on East Birch creek, he saw some eagles chasing the swan in the air above him. The unfortunate bird in his anxiety to escape flew directly over the young man's head, and, with a quick spring, he managed to seize and bring it down, the disappointed eagles flying away.

Chief Justice Bleckley, of Georgia, recently indicated to the governor his intention of resigning, on the ground that he was getting along in life and ought to make a little money. His health and mental powers, however, were unimpaired. Before formal action was taken, the chief justice was persuaded to refrain from taking the step by some of his associates on the bench and the leading members of the bar.

A general mistake is made about baskets, most people supposing that the white willow basket is the best. It looks best, but it is by no means the strongest. The white willow slips are cut in the fall and kept green all winter by packing their stubs in wet sand or water, and when spring comes the bark peels off with a twist of the hand. The buff baskets, on the contrary, are made from dried willow slips, which have been steamed and then peeled. While not so handsome, they are much stronger, and will wear far longer than the white.

About thirty years ago Moses Starling and others put two small flocks of sheep on Monhegan, a bleak and rocky island off the entrance of Penobscot Bay, believing that sheep could take care of themselves almost anywhere. Since then the flock have increased to an aggregate of 250 head, running wild and receiving no attention whatever. Once a year men have gone to the island, driven the sheep into a pen, and sheared them and marked the lambs. The sheep are now owned by half a dozen persons, some of whom have not seen the stock for twenty years.

A most extraordinary guard takes up its quarters inside the Bank of England every evening at 7 o'clock all the year round, remaining there until 7 o'clock the next morning. It is an officer's guard, and consists of a drummer, two sergeants and thirty men, all well armed. Each man receives a shilling from the bank authorities immediately upon his arrival, a sergeant's share being two shillings. The officer is allowed a supper and two or three bottles of wine, and is permitted to invite a friend if he sees fit to do so.

An East Dover, Me., farmer had a mare something over twenty years old, and, not thinking it advisable to winter her, asked some boys to take her out, shoot her and bury her for a money consideration. Boys Nos. 1 and 2 did the job all right, but No. 3, not knowing the mare had been killed, went the following day to the farmer's barn and finding an animal in the stable took him out, led him down to a piece of woods and shot and buried him. Imagine the farmer's surprise on coming home to find that No. 3 had shot and buried a nice five-year-old worth in the neighborhood of $200.

TOLEDO THESPIANS.

A Local Troup Comes to Grief in Chicago.

They're Coming Home Busted and Disgusted—Names of the Leading Lights and How They Shone.

They billed the town with cheap stock cuts,
Sought landlords who would trust,
And if the sale of seats was light
The troup would have to bust;
And so it proved—'tis oft the case,
They lived but for a night,
And ere another day had dawned,
The darkness saw their flight.
They took the road and track until
Their town's spires met their gaze;
Yet years to come you'll hear them talk
Of good old palmy days,
When they were playing this or that,
Of hits they made at Rome,
But let them talk, they know full well,
The times they hoofed it home.

And so it is, the life of an actor, however grand it may appear to be as he or she cavorts about in spangles and cheap gew gaws on the stage, is in reality no soft snap. A number of Toledo's amateurs, led on by visions of highly-colored lithographs and full length pictures of themselves with their names at the tops and bottoms in letters a foot long, recently organized a theatrical company and started out in a regular professional style to reap fame and fortune on the histrionic boards, and sad to tell the tale, they are coming back in the same true professional style also—to-wit, busted and disgusted. That is, they are coming back as fast as they can under the circumstances. It will be some time before they all get here. One by one they will return and slip into town by the pale light of a cold and unsympathetic moon as many an actor has done before.

The play they chose in which to shine was Two Irish Hearts. Prof. Dr. Burdick, the Cherry street dentist, was manager. The actors were Charles DeVeaux, a splendid looking name on the bills, Will Reese, Burt Pugh and several ladies, eight performers in all.

For two weeks they shone as stars in the thespian firmament. They played Bryan, Van Wert, Napoleon, Bluffton and the meteoric flight came to a sudden termination at Chicago.

Chicagoans had seen a good many shows but they never saw one like this, at least they didn't appreciate it somehow or other, and the company's trunks, properties and most of their wearing apparel were put up for bills.

It was too bad they didn't have good houses, but they didn't. In every audience there was lots of room, room to rent, room to throw away, room to sell, room to give to the poor.

In one town they showed to but one man in the audience. 'Twas a five-act play. At the end of the third act they were called before the curtain and—and—no, not applauded, but hooted. The audience offered to compromise if they'd pay for the drinks. Did they do it? They couldn't; they hadn't the price of the growler.

But never mind. They've all got grit and can try it again. Many an actor has gone through just such an experience and is none the worse for it. Then, too, in the days to come, when the top of the ladder of fame has been reached, how pleasant to talk of the good old palmy days when everything wasn't as lovely as it might have been.

It seems that a troupe of Bowling Green boys went to Napoleon and gave a show claiming to be professionals. It was a bad show, that is, for professionals, and the Wauseon Expositor sympathizes with Napoleon as follows: "Wauseon citizens sympathize with you deeply, as we were once afflicted in a like manner. A troupe called 'Society,' from Toledo, gave an entertainment here, and at one time during the performance Manager Newcomer thought seriously of investing in two or three hundred pounds of nails and spiking the people to the chairs in order to hold the audience until the close of the entertainment." So it is again that the aspirant for fame is hit on the head with a dull thud by the club of public opinion. But then, what does the public know about it?

COUNCIL COMMITTEES.

Legislation Approved for a New Ward.

The Sixth Ward to be Divided—Several Contracts Let—Other Council Business.

Several council committees met last evening and transacted principally routine business.

The committee on rules and by-laws took up Alderman Hartford's ordinance to divide the Sixth ward into three wards. Messrs. Huberich, Lee and Pheatt were the only members of the committee present, but as the matter has been hanging fire for some time they decided to act upon it.

Alderman Hartford was present and urged the approval of the ordinance for the reason that the 12,000 people of the ward should have a larger representation in the council.

After some discussion Mr. Pheatt moved to divide the ward into two wards instead of three. This carried, and it was decided to divide the ward at Nevada street and to name the new ward the Tenth. This will make about an equal population in the two East Side wards. The ordinance with this amendment was adopted.

The sidewalk committee approved a few resolutions for new walks.

The committee on harbor and commerce approved a schedule of bills, the largest of which was for the repair of the St. Clair street bridge, which has been completed.

The railroad committee approved an ordinance granting to Horace S. Walbridge and others the right to construct an electric street railway along part of Broadway out to the city line. This is the Toledo end of the proposed Maumee electric railway and the new ordinance extends the time for construction.

* * *

The street committe had another lengthy discussion over the project to condemn a 30-foot strip along Islington street and thus make the street 60 feet wide. The ordinance to condemn was finally approved.

Legislation was approved to grade Winthrop street, Putnam to Franklin; Putnam, Machen to Bancroft; Columbia, Franklin to Putnam; Batavia, Franklin to Putnam, and Machen, Franklin to Putnam.

The only business before the sewer committee was the awarding of several contracts as follows: Sewer No. 404, in Shaw avenue and alley, from Lincoln to Oakwood, W. T. Ryan, $584.45; sewer 405 in alley south of Walbridge avenue, W. T. Ryan, $224.20; sewer 406, in alley between Martha and Newberry streets, Andrew Maher, $1,227.22; sewer 407 in alley between Bartlett and Washington streets, James Doyle, $1,452.24; sewer 408, in alley north of South street, Andrew Maher, $2,499.64; sewer 409, in Batavia street and alley, James Doyle, $545.24.

DEAD SEA FRUITS.

They slay multitudes when ther are the product of neglect and incipient disease. A "slight" cold, a fit of indigestion, billousness or constipation each or any of these "minor ailments" advance in many cases with "league-destroying strides." Give them a swift, early defeat with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and avert the danger. Abernethy administered an alarming rebuke to the man who informed him that he had "only a co'd!" "Only a cold," repeated the doctor. "What would ye have—the plague!" Rheumatism and la grippe are easily extinguishable at the start. Why then allow them to get a full head of steam? Put on the brakes with the Bitters. The genial warmth which this superb medicine diffuses through the system, the impetus it gives to the circulation of the blood, its soothing and strengthening effect upon the nervous, specially recommend it to the enfeebled and sick. 'Tis the great specific for malaria.

RAILROAD BRASSES.

A Dangerous Practice of Bold Thieves Giving the Police Some Trouble.

John Skehan and Michael Collins were fined in police court for stealing railroad brasses, and they are now serving time at the workhouse. The stealing of railroad brass seems to have become quite a fad among petty thieves of late, and the railroad companies, together with the police, are making every effort to break it up. The brass consists of heavy pieces forming the axle bearings in the journal box. These brasses are very heavy, and bring a good price as junk. The thieves steal them from the shanties along the railroad, and lately they have become so bold as to take them out of cars that are standing in the yards, thereby damaging the cars, and endangering life, as a car might easily break down and cause a wreck if the absence of the brasses was not discovered.

London, Feb. 5.—Prince Henry of Battenberg left Osborne house to-day for a trip to the Mediterranean. He goes to Algiers, where the yacht Sheila awaits him. She desired to share the voyage but the queen would not consent to her being away so long exposed to the perils of the sea. The queen becomes attached more than ever to her youngest daughter in her declining years.

TO PARENTS.

Abraham Lincoln, the martyred President, when about to leave his old home after he had attained the highest honors that a great nation could bestow upon him, closed an address with these words: "Neighbors, give your boys a chance." We would repeat these words, and say to every father and mother: "Give your boys a chance." These are days of action and exacting competition, days when moral courage and brain power count, days wherein there can be only a survival of the men who are mentally and physically the fittest. Aside from the duty which you owe the State of giving to it sons and daughters who will win their way honorably in life, there is a parental duty devolving upon you to qualify them for the battle which they will have to wage in the world's great arena, whether their lot be cast in the professions or in the no less honorable field of artisanship and honest toil. Favored though they justly are in the family circle, the day must come when in the inexorable law of fate their chairs will be empty by your fireside and they will be out struggling alone in the world with only their merit to aid them. You will follow them with your best wishes, applauding their every effort and cheering them on in their successes; but grateful as will be your encouragement how very little balm will it be if, despite his efforts, the son goes backward and the neighbor's boy mounts up to heights upon which he was bent. In the earlier days of this land you may have had to till and toil, knowing little of leisure and less of luxury, but for what was it all? First, that you might have a competence, and next and always, that your children might obtain positions higher and better even than your own. You, mothers, know the pride you have in your sons. You know that deep down in your hearts there is a well of tenderness and of love for even the erring one. You know, as all the world does, that his success is heaven to you and his failure a heartache keener than even his own. What, then, should you do? In the words of Lincoln, "Give your boy a chance." Give him an education that will fit him to cope with the best. Teach him to love his home, and teach him that in it he will find civilizing and educational influences. If he has been to college don't let his education stop there. If he has not enjoyed the advantages of a good education encourage him now. He may be smart naturally, but if he has nothing but his natural talents to help him there will surely come a time, just as he is mounting highest, when this lack of education will handicap him grievously. The time to remedy this is the present. In the "Encyclopedia Britannica," which is offered free as an advertisement, you will have a library fully the equal of any in the land. It is a digest of art, science, literature, history and invention, an epitome of all that is good and lasting, a moral drawn from the works of men and nations.

It is now for the first time placed within your reach. It will cost you not one cent.

THIS WILL BE EXPLAINED LATER.

THEY SEE TROUBLE AHEAD

A Cabinet Crisis Reported at Washington.

Blaine and Harrison Cannot Agree.

Some Intimate Friends of the President Expect to See Blaine Leave the Cabinet at an Early Day.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The sensational attack made through a newspaper here which is controlled by a well-known republican, who is known to be violently opposed to the secretary of state, has created a sensation among politicians, and further developments are awaited with great interest.

If the attack was not inspired directly by the president's friends it at least has the active sympathy of some of them who have come to believe that Mr. Blaine is the real disturbing element in republican politics to-day and is the only man who stands between Mr. Harrison and a renomination.

Different views are entertained as to the motive which prompted the attack, although it is claimed that the facts in connection with the Hale dinner are substantially correct. Some of Mr. Blaine's friends say that the Harrison men, having become convinced that Mr. Blaine is about to leave the cabinet in order to enter the presidential race, have taken what looks on the surface like a circumstantial case of duplicity and trickery on the part of Mr. Blaine in his conduct of the Chilean affair to exploit that matter before the country in a sensational way and thus force the retirement of the secretary of state under a cloud.

Mr. Harrison's friends, on the other hand, say they have no disposition to make open war on Mr. Blaine, although he has acted outrageously in the Chilean matter and in a sort of patronizing spirit of charity they insinuate that Blaine's irritable display of temper at the Hale dinner was due to a sort of mental unrest caused by the failing of his physical powers.

While they do not charge directly that Mr. Blaine's mind is unsettled, yet in a round about way they hint at it and cite many incidents of his strange conduct recently.

For instance, the say that Mr. Blaine hase become extremely absent-minded. A few days ago it is said the president gave him some papers in connection with some matter pending in the state department and asked him to attend to them immediately.

Mr. Blaine is said to have stuffed the papers into his pocket, and several days afterwards when inquiry was made about them, to have disclaimed any knowledge of the papers having been given to him. Subsequently, when he found them in his pocket, he is said to have stated that he had forgotten all about the matter.

At the cabinet meeting he does not, so the Harrison people say, venture a decided opinion on any subject, but shrugs his shoulders and gives a sort of contemptuous assent and when the cabinet meeting is over goes out and condemns the course of the president and his advisers among his social and political friends.

How much truth there is in all this it is impossible to say; but it is very evident that a crisis has been reached in the cabinet and that a sensational explosion of some kind may occur any day.

QUARTER OF A MILLION.

A Big Steal by a Firm of Cotton Dealers.

They Have Covered Up Their Tracks Completely and Leave a Large Number to Mourn Their Absence.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 5.—W. R. and R. Jones have effectually covered their tracks in their flight, and their confidental bookkeeper is also missing. To-day Samuel Blaisdell, jr., & Co., of Cohoes, N. Y., and Boston, filed an attachment suit against the absconding cotton factors.

Last August Jones Bros. drew on them for cotton with bills of lading attached. The draft was honored, but the cotton was not shipped and only after being threatened with prosecution did the firm restore the money.

Later they shipped a large lot of cotton to the same firm and drew for it at middling long staple prices, but when the cotton arrived it was a mongrel lot and the firm could not sell it.

They notified Jones Bros. and the latter ordered the firm to return the cotton and drew on them for the money advanced. The draft was protested and the Boston house stopped the cotton in transit.

Jones Bros. have beaten their Bremen correspondent out of $100,000, and this, together with what they caught eastern spinners for, will make their steakings $250,000. They were reckless traders, very vain, and had an ambition to be classed as the biggest buyers in Memphis.

HAD NO DYNAMITE.

Gould's Caller Was a Harmless Crank.

He Simply Wanted the Great Financier to Aid Him in Pushing an Imaginary Enterprise.

Millville, N. J., Feb. 5.—Ephraim Pine, the Millville crank who tried to borrow a million and a half of dollars from Jay Gould in New York yesterday, arrived home on a late train last night.

He lives about four miles out of this city, on the road leading to Newport, and is looked upon here as one of the most harmless men in the world.

When questioned about his visit to Mr. Gould's office, he seemed much discouraged that he had been unsuccessful in getting the financier to boom his big enterprises, and was much surprised when informed that the clerks were afraid his satchels contained dynamite. He does not know what dynamite is, and never shot a gun off in his life.

THEY MET AT A FUNERAL.

Strange Place for an Elopement to Take Place.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 5.—The sudden disappearance of Coroner D. A. Hendrick on Sunday is paralleled by as sudden a disappearance on the same day of Mrs. Matthew Kinsey, wife of a postoffice employe and daughter of the well known architect, W. K. Dean.

The prominence of the parties and the mode of disappearance make a decided local sensation. Mr. Hendrick has passed his fortieth birthday and Mrs. Kinsey is a pretty blonde, 27 years old.

No domestic troubles are apparent in their families and it appears to be a case of love at sight. The acquaintance is said to have dated from the funeral of one of the Kinsey children, of which Mr. Hendrick had charge as undertaker.

SOCIALISTS NOT IN IT.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—No member of the socialist party has been invited to the reception given by the emperor to the chamber of delegates. No discrimination is made against other delegates.

This exception is regarded as of deep significance in view of the present conflict over the educational bill.

The emperor and Chancellor Caprivi have evidently taken this method of indicating their resentment of the determined opposition offered by the socialist delegates to the bill.

A "BISHOP'S BIBLE."

Interesting History of a Fire-Scarred Relic 300 Years Old.

In a house at Braintree there is to be seen an old English Bible which is as sacred to the family as the Trojan penates were to pious Aeneas. Although its duplicate may be found among the treasures of some Boston bibliophile, this copy is especially interesting on account of its age, its contents, its workmanship, its typography and its history.

Its initial title page and a few chapters of Genesis are wanting—otherwise it is quite complete. It still has two title pages—one to the New Testament and one to the appendix. That of the New Testament bears the date A. D. 1582, and that to the appendix A. D. 1581.

The imprimature is that of Christopher Banker, London, and its answers generally to the descriptions given of the so-called "Bishop's Bible," a version by eight English bishops in the reign of good Queen Bess. It is rich in full marginal notes, sometimes running into commentary, and contains "two rite profitable concordances" for convenience of "ye gentle reader." There is also an essay on "sol-fa-ing," with staff and notes, beside the psalms, paraphrased by "Sternhold and Hopkins," and score for the "rite rendering of the same."

The letter press is of the old black-letter form, the notes and explanations being in Roman. One cannot fail to notice the mechanical work, almost equaling the best of the present time. The type clean cut, the ink bright, the numerous vignettes well executed, the well-worn remains of brass clasps, and the strong, polished calf binding nicely tooled, indicate its original perfection as a specimen which honest workmen might well be proud of.

It is not certainly known when this book migrated to this country. It can be directly traced to Mr. Samuel Hutchinson, of Charlestown, in whose possession it was in 1775. At the time of the battle of Bunker Hill Hutchinson's house was burned, and he recovered £750 from the government for the losses sustained. The old Bible was among the valuables rescued from the flames and carried away in a one-horse chaise—the top of the chaise being riddled with bullets. The Bible bears some marks of ts baptism by fire.

The former owner may have been an ancestor of the celebrated Anna, or of John, the theologan of Yorkshire, Eng., or of Francis, the great metaphysician; so costly a book would not be found in possession of those who did not appreciate its intrinsic worth. "Bishop's Bibles" were not made for the commonality.

For the last century it has been in the family of th present owners, who are kindred to Samuel Hutchinson. Some branch of the Edwards family once owned it, and "Mary Edwards her booke" is written on a fly leaf.

The present owner was quite surprised a few days since when turning up a leaf that had long been pasted down to discover the autograph of Jonathan Edwards written in the peculiar clerical hand of the age of the renowned theologian. It would be interesting to know if there was any connection between Francis Hutchinson, who was writing "A System of Moral Philosophy" in 1750, with Jonathan Edwards, who was writing his famous treatise on "The Will" at the same time, of which the old Bible is an evidence.

The remarkable growth which, till within two years, was brought about principally by one person telling another, is a monument to Garfield Tea's merits.

WITHIN A YEAR OF STARVATION.

The entire capital in the richest nation or state, consisting of railways, mills, factories, workshops and dwellings, together with all the goods and wares of every kind—comprising all that has been saved in a useful form, aside from the opening of the ways, the clearing of the land and bringing it into productive condition—will not exceed three, or possibly four, years' production; in most states it is less. If all could be reconverted into food, fuel and clothing, and the world should rest wholly from work, all would be consumed in two or three years. In respect to food, the world is always within a year of starvation, yet there is always enough somewhere.—Popular Science Monthly.

SOLD HER TO A NEGRO.

Pretty White Girl Given Into Base Slavery.

Most Revolting Story From St. Louis.

The Purchase Price, Three Hundred Dollars, Was Never Paid—Developments of a Divorce Suit.

St. Louis, Feb. 5.—The hearing of the evidence in the divorce suit of Mary A. Jackson, a pretty white girl of about 16, against Wm. H. Jackson, a burly negro, by Judge Wilderman, in the St. Clair county (Illinois) circuit court at Belleville developed a most revolting story.

According to the evidence the girl, whose maiden name was Mary Maloney, was 14 years old at the time of her marriage to Jackson. She was forced to wed the negro boy by her mother, who six months previously had married a negro named Edwards. Her mother and Jackson went to the office of County Clerk Rhein in Belleville on May 5, 1890, without the girl and secured a license for the marriage of her daughter and the negro, swearing that her daughter was 17 years of age. Jackson gave his age at 22.

Mrs. Jackson, who does not look over 16 years of age, told her horrible story in the court room at Belleville yesterday. She said that she was compelled by her mother to marry the negro, who claimed to have considerable money, and who agreed to pay off $300 of a mortgage which rested on some property in East St. Louis, owned by her mother. They were married in East St. Louis the same day the license was issued by Rev. Edward Jackson, a colored Methodist minister. That night they were charivaried, and nearly every pane of glass in the house broken. The next day her husband took her to a negro boarding house kept by Sandy Mick, on Morgan street, St. Louis, where she stayed one week. He then took her to a house on Gratiot street and afterwards to the house of one Glory on Morgan street, and endeavored to have her lead a life of shame and supply him with money so that he might live without work. She then left him and returned to her mother's house in East St. Louis. The negro followed her and remained one week and then deserted her.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Jackson's testimony her attorney, Capt. Wm. H. Bennett, stated to the court that a white man who desired to marry her before she wed the negro was willing to marry the poor woman after her divorce. Judge Wilderman said that it was the most revolting case that he had ever heard of, and the testimony showed that her negro husband was worse than a brute. He therefore granted the divorce.

The records in the county clerk's office at Belleville show that the mother of the girl, Mrs. Catherine Maloney, was granted a license to marry John Edwards, colored, on July 10, 1889, and that they were married on the same day by Rev. Edward Jackson, colored.

The mortgage for $300 on the property, which Wm. Jackson promised to pay in consideration of his marriage to the daughter of the woman, was foreclosed at the present term of the circuit court, having been unpaid.

THE WORKHOUSE BOARD

Talk of Matters in Connection With the Infirmary Directors.

The workhouse board and infirmary directors took another turn at the old score, at the meeting at the workhouse yesterday afternoon. The directors of the Humane society are in the muss, but none of them were present. Messrs. Bumbach and Reynolds of the board of infirmary directors were on hand with sleeves rolled up for business. As soon as the meeting was called to order the wordy war began, and continued at a lively rate for two hours, with no more of an understanding at the conclusion than at the beginning.

The infirmary directors object to having workhouse prisoners "dumped at their door," but of course the county owns the door. The workhouse physician stated that the sick and helpless in a great many instances applied to the infirmary for help, and on being refused committed some crime or went up as a "vag" to get to the workhouse, where he could get free lodging and medical attendance. He said further that the police court sent men to the workhouse, who should have been sent to the infirmary.

The directors of the Humane society were not present, and nothing was done with regard to the charges made by that board.

Mrs. Strohline appeared to ask for the pardon of her husband. He had been sent up for cutting her with a knife. She was requested to bring recommendations from the police prosecutor.

Grace Glenwood, sent up for drunkenness and prostitution, was pardoned. Friends paid the fine.

Wm. Saulsbury was pardoned. He was committed for wife-beating. Letters from Judge Harmon and others were presented in evidence.

Contracts to receive prisoners from Hoytsville and Kalida were approved.

Jack Kerwin was released on payment of $5 of his old fine and promise of the balance before the 18th.

The W. C. T. U. will hold religious exercises at the works, respectively with other societies.

Before and After

UP AND DOING.

The advice to be up and doing
Is all very well in its way,
If we are the right pursuing
And our deeds bear the light of day;
A better precept we cannot keep
If we're busy with honest labor,
But 'tis better far to be fast asleep
Than be up and doing your neighbor.
—Yarmouth Register.

HIS WIFE SETTLED IT.

Will Edmunds was a poet, and, in his own estimation, a good one. If the world had not discovered the fact, it certainly was not Mr. Edmunds' fault, since he was a regular contributor to the poetical columns of all the local papers.

His latest effusion had wrought sad havoc in his usually well-ordered household, and it served to dampen his poetical ardor in a surprising degree.

The poem in question was certainly a good one, at least it both looked and sounded well; and Mr. Edmunds felt very well satisfied with himself, the poem, and the world in general, as he unfolded the paper and proceeded to read his latest production aloud to himself as follows:

BREAKFAST, DINNER AND TEA.

What will I have for breakfast, dear?
My wants are all in my mind quite clear;
You with your cheerful morning smile
And a pretty dress my thoughts to beguile
Into thinking of flowers; an earnest word
That will through all my busy day be heard,
And make me sure that my morning light
Beams strongly true, e'en while dancing bright,
Be certain to give me these—all these—
And anything elese that you can or please.

Dinner.

But dinner—what will I have for that?
Well, dear, when I enter, doff my hat
And turn to the table, want to see you
Standing, just as you always do,
To make me lose all my forenoon's fret
And cheer for the afternoon's work to get;
Tell me all your news, and I'll tell you mine;
And with love, and joy, and peace we'll dine.
Be certain to give me these, all these,
And anything else that you can or please.

Tea.

And what for tea? Have I any choice?
Yes, dear, the sound of your own dear voice,
And your gentle presence I always feel
The cares of the day, like shadows, steal
Away from your soul light; and evening rest
Come just in the way that I love the best.
So, when you're planning our twilight tea,
With a special thought in your heart for me,
Be certain to give me these, all these,
And anything else that you can or please.

As Mrs. Edmunds unfolded here evening paper, her eyes fell on the poem and her husband's signature. She, too, perused it, with a sarcastic smile playing around her pretty lips, and a look of determination settling gradually over her features.

"Well, that sounds very nicely," she said, as she finished, "and to-morrow I will serve that bill of fare to my poetical husband, and we will see what we will see."

"Yes," she murmured, "I think it will work nicely, provided there is no company; if there should be, why, I would have to change my tactics, that is all."

When Mr Edmunds entered the dining-room the next morning, he noticed at once that something was wrong. The usually neat and prettily set table looked as he mentally denominated it, "all askew."

Not so with Mrs. Edmunds, however; a pleasant smile rested on her face, and she had on a pretty gown.

Mr. Edmunds gave no heed, either to the smile or dress, and inquired in a very dissatisfied tone: "What is the matter with this coffee, it is more like dishwater than anything else? You know I am particular to have my coffee strong."

"I am sure, my dear, I cannot imagine what the matter is, possibly my mind was so engrossed in thinking of life and its responsibilities, that I may have omitted to put in the usual quantity. I was thinking how in the rush and hurry of our lives, we forget the wonderful possibilities and opportunities that surround us on every hand, and thus grow cold, cramped and sordid. We know not what faculties we possess, until we waken the germ that lies sleeping within us, and turn our lives in a living, tangible, intelligent reality."

This flow of eloquence was met with an incredulous stare and the query, "Did you know this toast was burnt?"

"I was aware that it was slightly scorched on one side; but you said: 'The smile, the pretty dress, the earnest word, and anything else you can or please.'"

A sudden light dawned on Mr. Edmunds' mind, and various conflicting expressions flitted over his face. He said no more, but swallowed his burnt toast and weak coffee and hastily left the house.

Mrs. Edmunds laughed as the door closed behind her husband. "It was a miserable breakfast, but then it was his own bill of fare and he can't blame me. He ought to know better than to write such nonsense, and I'll wager that it will be the remembrance of the poor breakfast instead of the earnest word that will follow him 'through all the busy day.'"

Business cares soon engrossed his mind, and the unpleasant episode of the morning slipped so entirely from his memory that when Mr. Barstow, an out of town friend, called, he gave him a hearty invitation to dinner.

It was with dismay that Mrs. Edmunds received her husband and his friend; but it was too late then to make any changes, and there was nothing to do but carry out the program she had planned.

An ominous frown gathered on Mr. Edmunds' brow as he with one sweeping glance took in the poor and uninviting-looking repast spread out before them and mentally compared it to the delicious dinners that usually awaited him.

Mrs. Edmunds could plainly see the breakers ahead; but, seemingly unconscious of it, she, in a becoming dinner dress, did the honors of the table with as much serenity and grace as if it had been a dinner fit for a king.

She kept up a continual chatter on the forenoon's happenings, to which her husband replied briefly or not at all.

"A regular magpie," thought Mr. Barstow; "I don't see where she gets her reputation for being a good housekeeper. If they served me such a dinner in my second-rate boarding house I'd kick. Evidently her mind is engrossed with dress and gossip."

As they walked back to the office Mr. Edmunds was very thoughtful, and seemed to be revolving something in his mind.

Once seated safe from intrusion, he produced his latest effusion and put it in Mr. Barstow's hand, with the reamrk:

"That was a mighty poor dinner we got, and not at all what I am accustomed to. These verses are the cause of it; my wife read them and took me at my word."

His friend laughed long as he read it. "Well, that was very neatly done. You are fairly caught, and I don't think you need to grumble. Few men have wives who could take a bill of fare like that, and serve it as well as yours did to-day."

And again he roared at the remembrance of the dinner. Mr. Edmunds joined somewhat feebly in the laugh, but he could not quite relish the idea of having the tables so completely turned upon himself.

He secured Barstow's promise to keep the affair dark, and remarked to him, "I'll take you up again some day and I'll warrant you will have a dinner that is a dinner."

He thought the matter over during the afternoon, and, as the result, went meekly home at night and sat down to a supper that was served on the same plan, only a little more so, he thought.

He ate with the best grace he could, conscious all the while of the demure yet amused expression that rested on his wife's face.

When they were seated at the fire in the evening he gently broached the matter, while he studiously avoided the laughing eyes that looked steadfastly at him as he talked.

He informed her that the poetic bill of fare she had served to him that day was anything but satisfactory; that fair-sounding words, smiles, and pretty dresses was not the sort of food he cared to subsist upon; that what looked and sounded well on paper was another thing in the commonplace realities of life, and, though he was the author of the lines, he by no means wished his food served for him on that plan.

To all of which his wife acquiesced mildly and murmured something about the consistency of men in general.

Which remark Mr. Edmunds saw fit to ignore.—Boston Globe.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.

Medical Aid Sought in Vain.

Chronic Disease and Laudanum Doing Their Fatal Work.

A Disguised Case of Chronic Catarrh.

Mrs. Geo. W. Taylor, of Eaton, Gibson county, Tenn., writing for a recent publication, states: "Nearly two years ago I was confined to my bed with chronic diarrhoea, which had been running on for six years. I had tried everything I had heard of and consulted several physicians, with little or no relief. I sometimes took 100 drops of laudanum in a day—the dose never being less than thirty drops. April, 1890, I was not able to be up any longer, and, not knowing anything better to do, I sent for the family physician. He came and prescribed cod liver oil. When the doctor called again he did not think there was any chance for my recovery; and, being an honest man, told my husband privately that it was useless for him to continue his calls, as it would only be a bill for him to pay, with no benefit to me; for in his opinion, I was beyond help. That same evening my husband brought me a bottle of Pe-ru-na. I began taking it the next day according to directions, and began to improve at once.

"My neighbors have told me since I have gotten well that the doctor said I would not live over three weeks, and was likely to be dead in three days; but in three weeks I was able to sit up some. I took three bottles of Pe-ru-na, and felt better than I had for two years. In the fall I took another bottle, and last spring I took another. That is the last I have taken—five bottles in all. Of course I could not quit the laudanum all at once, and my friends thought I never would after having taken it so long. But I bought my last ounce of laudanum one year ago to-day, and did not take but very little of that; and to-day I have no sign of my old disease. I can do anything I ever could and eat anything without the least inconvenience; and when I say if it had not been for Pe-ru-na I would have been in my grave nearly two years ago I do not think I exaggerate in the least."

The above case of chronic diarrhoea is a fair example of chronic catarrh of the bowels, which had been running for years reducing its victim to a skeleton, uncured because unsuspected.

Chronic catarrh, like the "Angel of Darkness" is capable of assuming many forms, and uses many disguises. It is capable of setting up in the body such a variety of derangements that there are a large group of diseases, commonly thought to be dissimilar, but which are really different forms of catarrh. The different names by which these catarrhal affections have come to be known have the effect of leading most people to suppose each one to be an entirely different disease. To illustrate: What is generally known as "a cold" is really acute catarrh of the sporadic variety. Epidemic catarrh assumes three distinct phases, known as influenza, distemper, and la grippe, each one presenting different symptoms, yet there is no essential difference in their nature or successful treatment. Inflammation of the eyes and middle ear are simply catarrh of the mucous lining of these organs. Pharyngitis and laryngitis (sore throat) are both catarrh, although the symptoms produced by them are quite different. Bronchitis, catarrh of the bronchial tubes and consumption is in the majority of cases but catarrh of the lungs. Dyspepsia, diarrhoea, dysentry, inflammation of the bladder and other pelvic organs are nearly always due to catarrh of these parts.

It is established beyond all question that Pe-ru-na is by far the most celebrated, if not the only specific remedy for catarrhal diseases. The dose and times of taking the remedy differ according to the variety of catarrh for which it is taken. If it be a common cold, a wineglassful of Pe-ru-na, taken in hot water, at the beginning of the attack, followed by a tablespoonful every three hours until the symptoms all subside, is the proper treatment. In cases of la grippe, distemper, and influenza, the dose is a tablespoonful every hour for adults and a corresponding less dose for children.

In cases of sore throat, bronchitis and consumption it is better to add two ounces of rock candy to each bottle before using; then take according to directions on the bottle. This is also the proper way to use Pe-ru-na in all cases where a cough is a permanent symptom. In cases of dyspepsia and chronic diarrhoea the direction on the bottle are sufficient. Cases of chronic catarrh in the head, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach and pelvic organs, of ten, fifteen, or even twenty years' standing, are constantly cured by the use of Pe-ru-na. It has come to be a well-established fact that Peru-na will cure catarrh in any stage or variety where the case is not complicated by any organic disease.

A valuable pamphlet of thirty-two pages, setting forth in detail the treatment of catarrh in every phase of the disease, will be sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio. This book shoul be in every household, as it contains a great deal of reliable information as to the cure and prevention of all catarrhal and kindred diseases.

WOMEN AND THE VIOLIN.

In Orchestras They Perform Their Part Well, Giving Good Work for Their Money.

I am asked so many times why I learned to play the violin, that, to cut matters short, I answer the question by another: Why should I not have learned the violin? writes Camilla Urso in the Youth's Companion.

It is no new thing for women to play the violin, or any string instrument with a bow. Centuries ago ladies of high birth and station used to charm away the leisure hours and entertain their friends with their playing. Indeed, as exalted a personage as Elizabeth, queen of England, amused herself with the violin. An instrument of this sort, of the old and imperfect fashion, has been traced to her possession.

The Virgin Queen's case was not an isolated one. The squadron of Catherine of Medicis, as her maids were called, the followers of Marguerite of Navarre, and the ladies of Boccaccio's Decameron, are represented as playing on the viol. Painters of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries represent St. Cecelia, the patron of musicians, playing on the treble viol—the percursor of the violin in its present shape. The treble viol required from the performer a position and handling similar to those exacted by the violin.

Giuseppe Tartini, in his school of the violin at Padua, Italy, has several accomplished female pupils. Maddalena Lombardini Serinen, one of these, attained fame as a performer, and composed much violin music.

In 1786 Mozart composed his sonata in B flat minor, for violin and piano, for his friend Regina Sacchi. This lady was a celebrated performer on the violin, and Mozart often played with her in concerts.

To record the names of women who have attained celebrity in the art of playing the violin is not my object. I only wish to show that my choice of the instrument was not a whim, nor a case of rare occurrence, nor a novel one.

I believe myself, however, to have been the first girl violinist heard in public in the United States. I was brought over here from the Paris Conservatoire by an American impressario, to play in concerts, when I was 10 years old.

The development of violin-playing amongst women in Europe, America and Australasia in recent years has been most remarkable. A violin teacher of long experience in New York said recently, that if it was not for his female pupils he would be compelled to give up teaching.

It was once urged, as a reason why women should not play the violin, that the appearance and movements of the performer lacked grace. But when women players came before the public the absurdity of this notion was completely demonstrated.

Many reasons may be mentioned why the art of violin-playing, of all others, should be cultivated by ladies anxious to acquire musical proficiency.

The first reason is the lightness and grace of the violin. To look at it, to watch its wonderful contours, its perfection of form, is a pleasure always renewed, never tiresome. Ask the collectors or "amateurs" of violins. They will again and again look an instrument over, always discovering in it new points to admire.

Again, it is easily handled and carried.

No other instrument is so truly melodious. A simple ballad played on the violin will charm and give intense pleasure. Like the voice, it responds to one's emotion and mood.

As a solace, one finds no better, no more responsive friend than this delightful instrument; and one becomes so much attached to it that a slight accident—a crack, a jar—makes one feel grieved, as if a dear companion had been hurt. This reminds me of an incident in my experience that will illustrate this assertion.

At the house of a friend in New York, I found myself one evening in company with that illustrious performer on the violin, Ole Bull, and a very talented pianist, a young lady. Mr. Bull and this young lady discussed the relative merits of their instruments, and also the position and capacity of women in the field of music. The pianist asserted that she could bring out as much tone from her piano as any man, and that she "could make the strings break as readily as the strongest man could."

Ole Bull, turning toward me, exclaimed very excitedly, "See, Camilla! see what little regard these pianists have for their instruments. They pound them, they bang them, they glory in breaking them. How different from our love for our violins! We pet them, cherish them, speak to them, and when obliged to part from them for a while, we lay them down, carefully wrapped up in the softest of silks, in a bed lined with the choicest velvet. We are so jealous of them that we permit no other mortal hands to touch them."

To all of this I laughingly acquiesced, and turned the conversation toward something pleasanter.

I have tried to show that, as an art d'agrement, or accomplishment, the violin is perfectly within the ability of women, and in conformity with their tastes. I will also touch upon the matter of its utility to many students who might turn an honest penny by their acquired talent. Since few women can become virtuosi, many really good players can earn nothing by their skill, who, if they were given an opportunity, might help their families and themselves.

Why should not this moderate degree of talent be utilized in the orchestra? Women, as a rule, play in better tune than men. They play with greater expression, certainly, than the average orchestral musician.

In Dublin and Melbourne I have employed women violinists to reenforce my orchestra. They performed their part very well, and with close attention to details. They were quick to understand, prompt at rehearsals, obedient and attentive to the conductor's remarks, and not inclined to sneak away, under one pretext or another, if the rehearsal were a trifle long. They gave good work for the money paid them.

If such an incentive as paid employment in this way were given to the many female performers on the violin, it would be a great benefit to them, as well as an advantage to the musical world.

STOOD THE TEST.

Allcock's Porous Plasters are unapproachable in curative porperties, rapidity and safety of action, and are the only reliable plasters ever produced. They have successfully stood the test of over thirty years' use by the public; their virtues have never been equalled by the unscrupulous imitators who have sought to trade upon the reputation of Allcock's by making plasters with holes in them, and claiming them to be "just as good as Allcock's," and they stand to-day indorsed by not only the highest medical authorities, but by millions of grateful patients who have proved their efficacy as a household remedy.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

VIEW OF CARLYLE'S TEMPER.

It has been a personal pain to me in recent times to find among honorable and cultivated people a conviction that Carlyle was hard, selfish and arrogant, writes Charles Gavan Duffy. I knew him intimately for more than an entire generation, as intimately as one who was 20 years his junior, and who regarded him with unaffected reverence as the mand of most undoubted genius of his age probably ever did.

I saw him in all moods and under the most varied conditions, and often tried his impatient spirit by dissent from his cherished convictions, and I found him habitually serene and considerate, never, as so many have come to believe of his ordinary mood, arrogant or impatient of contradiction.

Shakespeare will please excuse us if we modify him thus: Thrice is he clad who hath his system strengthened with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and he but naked, though arrayed in furs, whose blood is poor or with disease corrupted. An incomparable medicine!

HOW SHE IS AR[illegible]

"Arn't you sometimes timid?" asked a young lady whose work sometimes takes her, late at night, into parts of the city where the "tough" element abounds.

"Oh, not at all," she replied. "I go armed, you know."

"Armed? Do you mean you have a six-shooter concealed about you?"

"I never fired a revolver in my life."

"A dagger of the dainty tragedy pattern, perhaps?"

"No; I am not an Italian, though I work among them."

"It can't be you've borrowed your brother's razor?"

"A razor! Oh, no; does my complexion justify the assumption that I could use that for a weapon?"

"Well, then, what do you defend yourself with?"

"Why, one of these hat-pins," she replied, as she drew from her jaunty toque a needle-like article with a round, solid knob at the end. "If a man attempted to molest me, and I jabbed that into his arm, don't you believe he'd halt without much ceremony? That would give me time to escape, perhaps, or, at least, raise an alarm. These pins are of the finest steel, you know, and never bend or break.—Boston Herald.

THE WAY TO GO.

You have seen California frequently mentioned in newspapers and magazines. Perhaps a friend has been there and writes enthusiastic letters back home about the climate and the fruits. It makes you anxious to see the country for yourself.

The time to go is in the fall and winter. Then work here is least pressing and California climate is most pleasing. The way to go is via Santa Fe route, on one of that line's popular, personally-conducted parties, leaving Chicago every Saturday evening and leaving Kansas City every Sunday morning.

Special agents and porters in attendance. Pullman tourist sleepers are used, furnished with bedding, mattresses, toilet articles, etc. Second-class tickets honored. Write to Geo. E. Gilman, Michigan Passenger Agent Santa Fe route, for folder describing these excursions.

TWO-EDGED VENGEANCE.

Mr. George H. Kennan, when on his way to Siberia, was arrested at the city of Perm, simply because he had several times walked past a prison, and his purpose in doing so, being unknown, was presumed to be evil. When he was going with the police officer to his hotel, to procure his passport, which had been left there, an incident occurred which proves that the vigilance of the police service is a blade which cuts all ways at once.

The driver of my droshky, says Mr. Kennan, happened to be a highway robber of a hackman, who had tried, that very morning, to make me pay three times the usual rate for a five minutes' ride. And when he saw me taken into custody, he was unable to conceal his delight.

"They're a bad lot, your high nobility," he said to the chief of police, as they drove away in the direction of the town. "Only a little while ago they hired my droshky, and then tried to cheat me out of half my fare."

"How much did they give you?" asked the police officer, with assumed sympathy.

The driver hesitated.

"Fifty kopeks," I said, indignantly, "and it was twice what he ought to have had."

The driver began to asseverate, by all he had held sacred, that he had not received half as much as the service was worth, but before he had spoken a dozen words, the chief of police, who evidently knew exactly how far we had ridden in a droshky that morning, interrupted him with the stern command:

"Shut your mouth, you brigand! They gave you three times as much as you were entitled to, and still you complain! A stick on the bare back is what you need, twenty blows laid on hot!"

The astonished driver, not daring to make any reply to the all-powerful chief of police, relieved his feelings by flogging his horse, and we were borne in a tornado of dust to the hotel, where prolonged study of my passport released me, for the time, from suspicion.

We have just received new designs in Black Embroidered Indias. See them at silk counter. LAMSON BROS.

A STRANGE CAREER.

Christian Long, who began life as a clock-peddler, has died at Shippensburg, Pa., after a notable career as evangelist, legislator, lobbyist and millionaire. One of Mr. Long's most successful schemes to found a fortune was to visit a farmer's house, spend the evening, make himself agreeable by playing on the fiddle, of which he was a master, and finally trade a clock for a certificate of Cumberland Valley railroad stock. The company was verging on bankruptcy for a time and Mr. Long bought many shares outright for 25 cents apiece. The consequence was that when he got ready to quit peddling clocks Mr. Long controlled enough Cumberland Valley stock to enable him to dictate the election of directors and their officers. But he didn't enjoy his money as the way of the world goes. He lived in a dilapidated house and ate bread and molasses most of his life.

A TRUTH FROM "TRUTH."

The New York Central is really first-class in all its appointments. Think of it, it has four tracks laid with the heaviest of steel rails in the most substantial manner, and when you are sleeping or lounging around in one of their superb Wagner cars, and flying along at the rate of nearly a mile a minute, as some of their fast expresses do, you will hardly realize that you are moving, so excellent is the permanent way. A short time ago a special train made the run from New York to Buffalo at the rate of a mile a minute the entire distance.

WANTED TO FIGHT.

"I think it would have been a good investment if a war with Chile cost a thousand millions of dollars," said Col. George O. Jones at the Arlington to a Washington Post reporter. "Nothing will completely eradicate the sectional feeling in this country till north and south are fighting once more under the same flag. A friend of mine has two sons, aged 17 and 19, who are going toc oliege down in Virginia. To his utter surprise they appeared before him here in Washington the other day, confessed that they had run away from school, and begged to be allowed to enlist in the navy. They had been reading the papers and thought there was going to be war right away. But that is the right spirit to animate the rising generation, and a foreign war would cement the good will of the sections, till north and south would have no significance henceforth except as a geographical distinction."

A REMINISCENCE.

In the anecdotes attending the career of William E. Robinson, the newspaper correspondent and ex-member of congress, who has just died, that relating to "Sausage" Sawyer is, perhaps, worth recalling. Mr. Sawyer was a member of congress from Ohio. He used to bring his dinner to the house with him wrapped in a newspaper, and when the hour of noon came he took the bundle behind the speaker's chair, opened it, and engaged in eating while the house was in session. His favorite food for this repast was the sausage. His action excited the sense of the humorous in Mr. Robinson, then a correspondent of the New York Tribune, who wrote out and printed in that paper a full account of Mr. Sawyer engaged in his repast, concluding with a description of his using the newspaper for a napkin on which to wipe his fingers after he had held the sausage in them until it was consumed. For this composition Mr. Robinson was expelled from the reporters' gallery. He had a good deal of fun out of it notwithstanding, as also did many other people.—Boston Herald.
